Jordan Goes To Trial Monday For Murder Of Chicago Policeman

JUDGE DENIES DEFENSE PLEA TO DELAY CASE

State to Push Second Charge if Jordan Escapes Death Sentence

Chicago — (P) — Frank E. Jordan today was ordered to trial Monday for the murder of Policeman Anthony Ruthy, who was shot and killed amid the late afternoon crowds at N. Michigan- Blvd. and Randolph-st. last Thursday when he attempted to arrest Jordan in connection with several bank robberies.

The order to trial was given by Chief Justice John P. McGorrie of the criminal court after overruling a motion for delay made by the defendant's attorney George E. Bieber and Michael Brodick. The state opposed any delay.

The state announced that if Jordan escapes the death penalty in the coming trial he will be tried for the murder of Policeman Patrick Durkin, who was fatally wounded when he attempted to help Ruthy arrest Jordan. He died a few days afterward.

The hearing this morning was held by an argument between Jordan and Detective Chief John Morton. Present were state's attorney John A. Swanson and his assistants, Harry S. Ditchburne and Nat S. Ruvell.

"The chief has my money, car and clothes," Jordan said, looking at Norton. "We're holding the car and money for evidence in the bank robberies to which you have confessed," retorted the chief.

"I did no such thing," shouted Jordan, pounding the court rail with his fist.

"Oh yes, you did," replied the chief. "Furthermore your wife told us about the car being purchased with the proceeds of the bank robberies."

"She bought the car with her own money," snapped Jordan. The chief justice settled the dispute by ruling that Jordan be given his clothing.

Jordan was returned to the county jail after the hearing, and found his mother, Mrs. Bertha Carlson of Rock Island, awaiting him. She begged to be allowed to speak with him privately and was ushered into a private room with him while a heavy guard was placed at the door.

Vernosh was arrested yesterday by Officer Earl Thomas.

Ill for two years, Mr. De Forest had virtually given up his law practice, but had maintained a close relationship to his many philanthropic and social activities.

He was president of the Russell Sage Foundation, Survey associates and the National Housing association. He was also honorary president of the Welfare Council of New York and was vice president of the American Red Cross and the State Charities Aid association. John Roach was elected president of the police and fire commission at the organization meeting at city hall Wednesday evening. He succeeds A. G. Koch, who served as president 10 of the 11 years he has been a member of the board.

Carl Sherry, newly appointed member of the commission, replaces Mr. Roach as secretary. Other members of the commission are Kurt Koletke and George Dene.

Nicholas Reider, Jr., injured in the Service Bakery fire two years ago, was named deputy fire inspector, and Michael Brautigan was made a permanent member of the fire department to fill the place formerly held by Mr. Reider. Since the bakery fire in which Michael Calina was fatally burned and Mr. Reider injured Mr. Reider has been serving as assistant to Chief George P. McGilgan, but the appointment as deputy was not officially made until last night.

The annual report of the fire chief was presented.

Last Man's Club's Lone Survivor To Revisit Old Battleground Of Company

Washington — (P) — Charles W. Lockwood today came back to the battlefield where he fought 70 years ago. He brought with him a little bottle of his Last Man's club wine.

It will go with him on his remnant pilgrimage—symbol of the 33 veterans of Company B, First Minnesota, whose chairs were draped in black last July 21 when 88-year-old Lockwood answered the last roll call and drank the last Man toast.

The banquet was on the anniversary of Bull Run's first battle, the date on which it was held for 46 years, and Lockwood will go first to Bull Run in revisiting the campaign's good enough for.

He stepped today off the train with a heavy suitcase in each hand, refusing all offers of assistance.

Half-way up the long platform, his daughter, Mrs. George A. Duthie, whose husband is chief of the division of information of the United States Forest service, found him, and reporters started asking questions.

"Was that wine actually all right?"

"Or had it turned to vinegar as reported when he drank the Last Man toast?"

He pulled the bottle from an inside pocket and offered it in turn to two reporters.

"That's it," he said. "Taste it for yourself." Vinegar, umph! It's Burgundy—and good enough for Burgundy. But I've always thought it was foolish to have wine. It should have been good Irish whiskey!"

And wine it was, a little flat but tasty.

To that wine about which his company annually gathered, Lockwood gave credit for creating a fellowship well worth while, despite its inevitable tincture of sadness.

He reviewed again the history of the club, described again with vibrant voice and glowing eyes the scene of that last banquet when the secretary called the entire roll, and he was the only one responding, "I am here, sir!"

"It makes a fellow think—watching them drop out that way, one at a time," he said. "I guess maybe I didn't spoil much whisky in my lifetime for that very reason. I'd no idea I'd be the last one when it started. Some were as young as I was."

"But getting together that way every year kept us all mighty close. We didn't forget much. That's why I'm going over the whole ground again."

With his son-in-law of the forest service, seasoned in out-of-door living like himself, Lockwood expects to tramp over the fields where the First Minnesota fought, locating what happened by the terrain.

"And at Bull Run, I ran, plenty fast when we got the order," he chuckled, "but I did stop to care for a couple of wounded first."

Captain Lockwood, whose thick-growing hair somehow forgot to turn gray, was always a campaigner, ready to take on new projects. For years it was town politics, out in Chamberlain, S. D. then he turned to Indian trading, in which he was briskly engaged at the age of 75.

"I swore 'off smoking a few months ago—thought it would be better for me," said Lockwood.

But with a sly little wink of the left eye he later admitted that maybe he did chew—just a little.

7 MILLION LOSS AS ARMORY IN BUFFALO BURNS

Church Also Destroyed by Fire With Estimated Loss of $50,000

Buffalo, N. Y. — (P) — Fire which swept through the 106th Field artillery armory here and caused damage estimated by Captain William Speldel, regimental supply officer of the 106th artillery, at more than $7,000,000, was completely under control early today.

Captain Speldel said that, with Captain Joseph W. Becker of the 174th regiment, he made an appraisal of the armory and its contents three years ago. He said they appraised the value of the armory alone at $3,000,000, and the equipment at $4,000,000. Captain Speldel said that little equipment was saved and that the armory would be a total loss. Captains Speldel and Becker are both real estate dealers.

The blaze spread during the night to a nearby church and destroyed that structure. Fire officials estimated this loss at approximately $50,000.

At 8:30 a. m. the ruins were still smoldering but most of the suburban companies summoned to the scene were ordered back to their stations. Of the more than 50 firemen overcome by smoke all but two had been discharged from local hospitals.

Legionaire Gives Alarm Minute men of a Legion post were drilling when John D. Marvin, a city fireman off duty and a member of the Minute men, discovered smoke coming out of cracks in the floor of the armory and sounded the alarm.

At first it appeared to be merely a stubborn basement blaze. But as the rising wind fanned the flames,

APPLETON VETERAN HAS MANY LETTERS FROM "DOUGHBOYS"

Miss Decima Salisbury, former high school teacher, has presented Arthur Bunka, a member of the American Legion, with a file of letters, cards, photographs, soldier mailing lists and World War clippings about Appleton boys. The material was received by Miss Salisbury, better known to her students as "D. J. S." from over 50 local boys during the war.

Ex-service men who were students at Appleton high school when Miss Salisbury was on the faculty will find letters from many of their old buddies, and may find those written by themselves.

more and more companies were summoned to the scene.

Firemen entering the basement to combat the blaze, were overcome quickly. Within two hours, the flames had mounted to the top of the armory, a four-story stone structure, and lighted up the whole city.

The roof fell with a crash and brands were scattered far and wide. In the American-Scandinavian church, a frame structure, took fire. The flames spread to several nearby buildings.

Panic spread through the neighborhood. One home was under quarantine for diphtheria. Householders standing on the roofs of their homes fought the brands with wet blankets and garden hose.

Records more than 100 years old were destroyed in the armory. Saturn, has ten moons or satellites.

We offer this creation to you in the form of rings, called Gassers. Hang in your closets, lay in your chests and drawers. The rings slowly evaporate, and the gas goes down. It permeates your fabrics without harm. That heavy gas drives moths away. Or, if they stay and lay their eggs, it kills them and their larvae.

20 SCHOLARSHIPS ARE OFFERED FOR 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

Outagamie-co Boys Are Eligible to Receive State Regents' Awards

The regents of the University of Wisconsin have made available 20 scholarships of $75 each for first year Wisconsin students in the short course in agriculture, according to word received by Gustav A. Sell, county agent. Mr. Sell said he would be glad to work with any Outagamie-co boys who desire to try to win one of the scholarships, and those who are interested have been asked to get in touch with him.

The purpose of these scholarships is to aid in the higher training of country youth with the hope that such training will tend to foster more effectively rural leadership in Wisconsin. It is hoped that these scholarships may encourage a few young men to prepare for the future as rural leaders. The course is for 15 weeks. The scholarships will meet a part of the winter expenses and are available for the fall of 1931. Persons accepting the scholarships pledge themselves to attend the entire 15 weeks unless prevented by illness or other unavoidable excuse. The committee has made plans for the awarding of the scholarships as follows:

A boy desiring to compete for the short course scholarship at the college of agriculture should do as follows:

Write in his own handwriting a story on "Agriculture and My Future". Discuss at least the following points: What I have done in the field of agriculture; Why I wish to make my future in agriculture; Reason why the scholarship is desired; and What I see ahead in agriculture.

The story is to be sent to Dean J. A. James, Agricultural hall, Madison, with a photograph. The essay must reach Madison by Oct. 20. At least four persons must recommend the contestant. If the contestant is a graduate or a former high school student he should send with his essay a copy of his school record. The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of 75 per cent for the story and 25 per cent for personal data and reference reports.

RURAL SCHOOL PUPILS TO WRITE FINAL EXAMS

Preparations are being made by A. G. Meath, county superintendent of schools, for the final examinations to be written by sixth, seventh and eighth grade students of the rural schools in the county next month. Last year all three grades wrote examinations on the same day, but this year the eighth grade pupils will write their exams on May 9 while sixth and seventh grade pupils will write on May 16, a week later. There will be six examination centers again this year as usual. They are: Kaukauna, Appleton, Seymour, Black Creek, Hortonville, Shiocton and Bear Creek.

SPANISH WAR VETS TO HOLD CONVENTION AT OSHKOSH IN JUNE

Volunteer Infantry to Have Reunion in Connection With Meet

The annual Wisconsin department convention of United Spanish War veterans will be held in Oshkosh, June 25, 26 and 27, according to word received here. It is expected a large delegation of Appleton veterans, members of the old Company G will attend the convention.

One of the features of the 1931 conference will be a reunion of the Second Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry. The committee in charge of arrangements is seeking to bring all former members of this organization in various cities throughout the state to the convention.

The reunion will be in the form of a banquet at Hotel Raulf Friday noon, June 26. Twelve companies of infantry from 11 cities in the state comprised this regiment, which rendered meritorious service in the war with Spain. The companies follow: Co. A, Marshfield; Co. B, Oshkosh; Co. C, Sheboygan; Co. D, Ripon; Co. E, Fond du Lac; Co. F, Oshkosh; Co. G, Appleton; Co. H, Manitowish; Co. I, Marinette; Co. K, Beaver Dam; Co. L, Ashland; and Co. M, Oconto.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS TO MEET AT TWO RIVERS

The Fox River Valley Vocational school Directors' association will meet at Two Rivers Friday, May 15, elect officers and arrange plans for the coming year. Herb Hellig, director of Appleton vocational school, expects to attend the meeting. Heads of trade schools from throughout the valley and lake shore district will attend.

Special problems dealing with co-operation between cities on employment itinerant instructors are to be discussed. Visiting directors will be the guests of A. A. Krushke. Two Rivers trade school head, at a dinner party Friday evening.

INCREASED NUMBER OF CERTIFICATES ARE TO BE SOLD

County Treasurer Expects 50 Per Cent More Delinquents This Year

About 3,750 tax certificates on property in Outagamie-co, on which 1931 taxes are still unpaid, will be advertised for sale soon, according to Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer. This is a big increase over 1929, when about 2,500 certificates were placed on sale, the treasurer said.

The sale of certificates will take place on June 9, and the law requires that the certificates be advertised for sale four weeks in advance of the date of sale. This means the sale will be advertised soon.

Part of the increase in unpaid taxes, Miss Ziegenhagen said, is due to the fact that many of the towns, cities and villages of the county extended the time for payment of half the real estate taxes, without penalty or interest, to June 1. A new state law made it possible for districts to grant this extension. These extended taxes must be paid on or before June 1, Miss Ziegenhagen said, or the owners of the property against which the taxes are delinquent will have to pay interest.

Put Huge Water Aerator Into Operation This Week

The new aerator at the Appleton pumping station and filtration plant has been put into operation. The mammoth apparatus, designed by A. J. Hall, plant superintendent, and constructed by the Greunke Bros. Construction company is capable of aerating 3,000,000 gallons of water daily, thus eliminating all possibilities of odoriferous water, a condition which prevailed during the dry season last summer when the old, inadequate aerator was in operation.

The aerator is equipped with 72 large nozzles out of which the water is thrown with tremendous force, thus breaking the water into minute drops. A big hydraulic operating table in the pumping station controls the amount of water which is forced out of the nozzles. Any quantity of water from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 gallons can be aerated during the day, the nozzles being regulated according to the demand.

Eight small nozzles of the garden hose variety also have been installed to add beauty to the tremendous fountain, which is to be lighted with colored electric lamps at night. Six 500-watt lamps are to be installed in the center of the huge basin, and it is expected the aerator will present a beautiful spectacle at night when each drop of water will be colored red, green, amber or violet, according to Mr. Hall.

Flower pots have been posted at each corner of the square basins to lend additional beauty to the structure. The aerator is constructed of red face brick and white stone. The large basement of the aerator is to be used as a garage and store room for plant equipment.

PROJECT IS REFERRED TO LIGHT GROUP

Removal of Wood Posts, Gas Pumps on Thoroughfare Also Asked

With never-say-die persistency, the petition for ornamental lights on Appleton-st again lifted its head at the common council meeting Wednesday night. This time it appeared with its companion, the request for widening. The matter was referred to the street lighting committee.

Alderman George Richard reminded the council that there is no appropriation for ornamental lighting in this year's budget. Alderman Mike Schindler said there had been no budget provision for the College-ave lights either, and that Appleton-st property owners are entitled to this improvement as were the merchants on the avenue. The petition further asked for the removal of all wood posts and curb gas pumps on the street.

The widening of the College-ave and Memorial-dr intersection, a hazardous corner under present conditions, became an actuality when the donation by Mrs. Mary Haug of enough property at this location to permit the widening. The city attorney was instructed to secure the deeds for the Haug property and the Chicago and Northwestern railroad property, also necessary for the widening of the corner. The engineer was instructed to prepare plans, and the board of public works was given power to act in the matter.

The board of public works and city attorney were instructed to purchase 20 feet of the Miller property in block 7, at a price not to exceed $800, for alley purposes. The resolution presented by Alderman C. D. Thompson, to start condemnation proceedings to acquire the McCann and Miller property at the corner of Lawrence and Superior-sts for parking purposes was lost by a 9 to 2 vote. Those in favor of the motion were Alderman Thompson, Richard, and Richard Groth. Negative votes were cast by Alderman G. O. Davis, Steinhauer, Oren, Marie, Walter Gmether, R. F. McGillich, C. J. Wassenberg, Harvey Kiltner, Wenzel Haseman and Philipp Vogt.

Opposes Condemnation
Mayor John Goodland, Jr., warned the council that condemnation proceedings would involve a useless expense if the council should refuse to take the property at the appraised value once proceedings were started. He asked the aldermen if they would sink $15,000 or even $8,000 into a parking place, advising them that condemnation proceedings would cost about $400.

Aldermen Vogt, Gmether and Steinhauer felt that it would be more sensible to purchase the property necessary for alley purposes, and to have the purchase of the more expensive lots. Mr. Haug, however, predicted that eventually the Lincoln school property would provide necessary parking place, and Mr. Vogt maintained that the city has no right to refuse essential improvements like sanitary sewers, paving, etc., and buy expensive property for parking. He said the city would be biting off a big chunk if it attempted to provide free parking space.

Mr. Thompson, author of the resolution, advised that the property, now an eyesore, can be utilized more cheaply now than in the future, and that the city might just as well be improving the lots for its own use rather than for private owners. He felt a purchase of this kind would be a cheaper way of solving the city's parking problem than moving monuments and boulevards to provide parking space. The price of the Miller property has been set at $10,000, and the Lincoln property is for sale at $150 a foot.

The purchase of the R. S. Powell property south of Parkway-blvd for street purposes was referred to the street and bridge committee. It was found, in negotiating for the purchase, that there are unpaid taxes to the amount of $140 on the land, which must be paid in addition to the purchase price, $450.

Hokey Inflation
The council voted 11 to 1 to purchase a resuscitator and inhalator for $375. The dissenting vote was cast by Alderman Barle. The mayor objected to the purchase of the equipment at this time, saying that the city has other mechanisms which were satisfactory in former years, and that the purchase of new equipment should be deferred. Alderman Vogt claimed the present machines are obsolete and that any expenditure there might save a life is more justified than many of the needless expenses incurred by the city.

The petition of First Ward property owners asking for the removal of the Caughlin company asphalt plant from its present location, because it is a hindrance to housecleaning, was referred to the mayor.

Proposed extensions of the feeder system by the water company, in accordance with the suggestions made by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, were referred to the fire and water committee. The estimated cost to the city of the improvement is about $11,000. The plan calls for new feeder mains on Parkway-blvd from N. Morrison-st. to N. Richmond-st., connecting with the main on Richmond-st. one starting at the corner of S. Draw-st. and E. Water-st., across Lawrence campus and the Brookway property, across the river to connect with the main on north and south Island-st. and Railroad-ave; and one on the two blocks on South River-st. between S. Lake and S. Jefferson-sts. Because of the low level of the river this year it is felt that the work can be done much cheaper this season. Permission was granted the company to start work Monday on the substitution of an 8-inch main for the 4-inch

Find Body Of J. Verbeten In Fox River

The body of Jacob Verbeten, 57, Kimberly, was found in the Fox river beneath the Kimberly bridge about 12:30 this morning following a search led by Frank Van Lieshout, village marshal. Dr. Ellisworth, coroner, and Sheriff John Lappen, after an investigation, decided that Verbeten had committed suicide. They said there would be no inquest.

Verbeten was missed about 6:30 in the evening at the home of his son, Martin, who has been living. About 3 o'clock a search was started, with Marshal Van Lieshout in charge. The search continued until midnight before the party decided to start dragging the river. Officer Van Lieshout led the searchers to the bridge and Verbeten's body was found almost immediately when the officer flashed his light along the pier underneath the bridge. The body was in about three feet of water.

Verbeten, officers said, had been in ill health for a long time. Survivors include two sons, Martin and John of Kimberly; and three daughters, all married, who live at Evanston, Ill. Funeral services will be held at Holy Name church in Kimberly Saturday morning.

main on South River-st. between S. Lake and S. Jefferson-sts.

Adopt Sewer Plans
Plans were adopted for the installation of a sewer on Verbricht-st. to be done under the supervision of the city engineer, and the board of public works was instructed to advertise for bids for one block of sewer on this street, from the east line of Bouten-st. to Memorial-dr. The Wisconsin Michigan Power Company program of gas main extension for 1931 was approved. It calls for new mains on S. State, W. Third, S. Locust, W. Fourth, W. Prospect, S. Badger, Beckman, W. Harris, N. Locust, W. Elsie, W. Oklahoma, W. Winnebago, W. Sumner, N. Story, N. Harrison, N. Superior, W. Hancock, and Atlantic-sts.

Sidewalk bids were referred to the street and bridge committee, as were the requests for the widening of W. Seventh-st, the opening of a road on W. Sumner-st, the request for a fence on the west side of the Fifth ward park, from W. Badger to W. V. Atlantic-st, and the suggestion of Alderman Steinhauer that an arterial be placed at the corner of S. Alton-st and Lake-st, and the one on the corner of Meade-st and Randall-st be removed.

The new price given School District No. 10, town of Grand Chute, for sewer service is $50 for the connection and $50 a year for service. The bridge tender salary was set by ordinance at $70 a month, with Alderman Wassenberg casting the only negative vote. The amendment to the junk ordinance making it necessary for all junk dealers in any district outside of the heavy manufacturing district to house their junk within six months was adopted. The ordinances concerning the setback line on N. Superior-st, the fees for transient merchants, and milk regulations were referred to the ordinance committee. Copies of the new city ordinance will be sent to each alderman.

The proposal made by Alderman McGillich and Wassenberg that taxes be paid twice a year was turned over to the finance committee.

Approve Park Extension
The council approved the street and bridge report, which recommended that the sewer through Ballaiepark be extended to the river, that an addition be built to the retaining wall on Washington-st, that Washington-st from Badger-ave to Mason-st be paved and a sewer, water main and a hydrant be installed, that the mayor appoint a sidewalk inspector, that the street department repair the retaining wall on S. Onondaga-st between Lincoln and McKinley-sts, that Drew-st be opened from its present terminus to the city limits, that several arterials be changed and a number of sidewalks built or repaired.

The paving of Ida-st, authorized at the last meeting, will be held up until the result of the installation of gas and water mains is determined. Mrs. W. C. Felton was elected to the health board, replacing R. C. Breitung. Dr. Carl Neidhold and Mrs. Dan Steinberg were reelected to the board. The appointment of Carl Sherry to the police and fire commission, George Schmidt and August Winters to the board of appeals, and William Timm and Dan Leppla to the planning commission were approved.

The request of the American Legion for a donation for fireworks and the use of the Artillery band for the Fourth of July celebration was referred to the finance committee. Fred Peterson was granted permission, upon the filing of a bond, to excavate below the sidewalk on Midway in the construction of an addition to his meatmarket. The work is to be done under the supervision of the engineer and building inspector.

The council approved the renewal of the contract with the Appleton Post-Crescent for the publication of council proceedings and other legal notices.

BADGER CRITIC WILL DISCUSS FARM PROBLEM

H. L. Russell on Program at International C. of C.
Meeting

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—For the first time in its history, agriculture is given a place on the program of the International Chamber of Commerce, and a Wisconsin man, H. L. Russell, former dean of the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, was chosen to present the agricultural situation. Summing up the ills of agriculture, their causes and means suggested for their cure, Dean Russell said: "It is conceivable that a country can declare a moratorium with reference to the payment of its debts, but what the world wants now is a moratorium on nature's operations for a year. Nature, no doubt, could stand it, but it would be tough on the poor mortals whose job it normally is, day by day, to wrest from the soil, not only that which is necessary for their own daily sustenance, but to keep the other fellow in shape to enable him to carry on his part."

Various forms of governmental relief for depressed agriculture often merely postpone the inevitable economic readjustment, Dean Russell said, although by stimulating or maintaining prices such methods may give temporary relief.

Relates History
Recounting the way in which tariff walls have been raised higher and higher in various parts of the world, Dean Russell suggested a criticism of the United States tariff policy in the following words:

"America has acted in this respect in no wise different from her international neighbors. Under the guise of relief to agriculture, higher and higher tariff walls have been built, not merely on agriculture, but on numerous other industrial products. These tariff barriers, when once inaugurated, have caused numerous reprisals on the part of other countries, making international exchange increasingly difficult."

After pointing out that America's position in international trade is steadily shifting to the side of industrial rather than agricultural dominance, with the United States being forced out of some of her foreign markets for dairy products, and meats, he said:

"There are some who advocate that America's job is to develop her own industries and not worry about the rest of the world. This policy might be possible if America was isolated as she was in the days preceding modern transportation. But throughout all the world, living standards are rising and wants are developing to be satisfied. A world at peace will buy and sell more and more."

Throughout his speech, Dean Russell advocated closer international trade relations for agriculture as a means of readjusting agricultural economics. He urged that the agricultural problem be studied internationally from the point of view of both production and consumption and said:

"The critical times through which the world is now passing is the economic backwash of the frightful storm which gripped this earth over a decade ago. How soon these waves will subside no one can predict with certainty. But one thing appears positive. In the shuffle and jostle of post-war movements, the nations of the earth have been shaken closer and closer together. This process facilitates more readily international movement, and such organizations as this can consider their object accomplished if by mutual exchange of ideas, the barriers of international good will can in some measure be broken down."

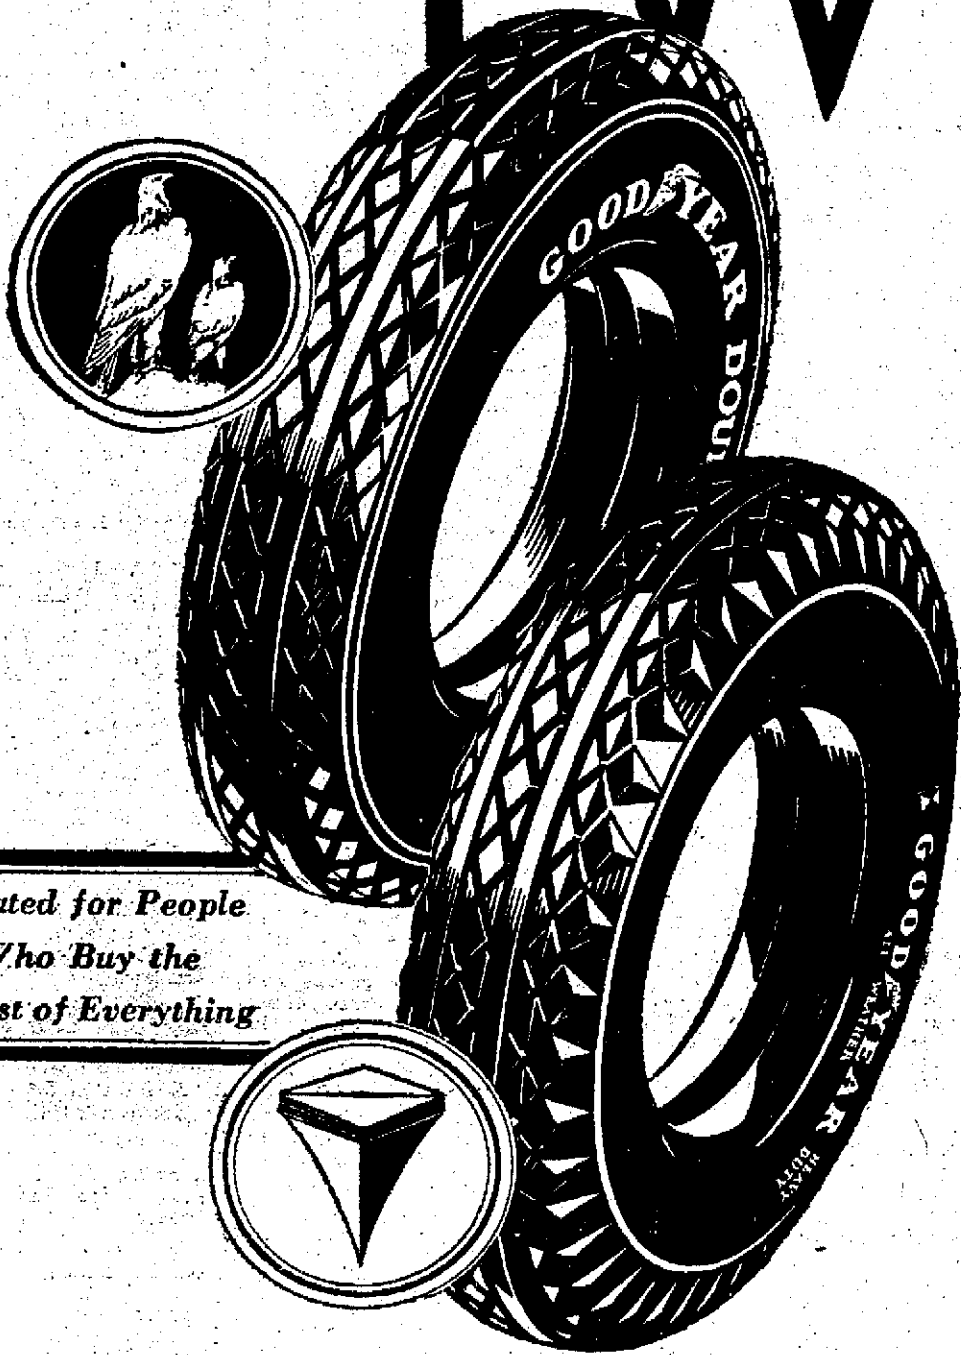

Dean Russell attributed some of the farm overproduction today to the efforts of various countries, such as Italy, to make themselves self-sustaining as far as agriculture goes, and of other countries, such as Soviet Russia, to regain places in world trade in farm produce lost during the war. For the rest, over-production, the falling birth rate, the economic readjustment following the war, the decreasing importance of food in the total scheme of things, since most other wants can be expanded with a rising standard of living while "more than three meals a day is very apt to put the human stomach in the repair shop," and the increasing productivity and mechanization of agriculture, which produce more goods for which there are not sufficiently increasing markets, were listed as causes of the farmer's troubles.

THE EVIL CITY

The candidates for mayor of Reno had the people in a deep quandary, with the problem of solving a difficult and breathless matter, one that might make their future hum with the activity they craved or mar it with the silence of dejection.

There were three candidates for mayor. One, Howard Doyle, backed by the so-called church element who were not altogether happy at the dizzy speed of their city, considered that taxes were high. Think of a candidate for mayor of Reno paying attention to any such subject! Reno had other things, dazzling, brilliant, eye-blinding, and taxes were very commonplace.

Milburn Gregory, also a candidate, advanced as his main plank the necessity of advertising "the scenic and health attractions of the city," implying plainly enough that Reno's bizarre reputation as the divorce and gambling capital of America was not to be shouted from the housetops but should be soft-pedaled.

But the incumbent, Mayor Roberts, who knows his Reno, believes it is bad, proud of it, and would like to get worse, advocated "a whisky barrel on every street corner with a tin dipper, as a cure for bootleggers," which certainly ought to cure or kill them.

The mayor sounded like Reno's reputation, and, in the speed-up made necessary by not losing a moment in filing a complaint for divorce or missing a single roll of the dice, the people smiled broadly at his slogan, considered his opponents as crepe-hangers and returned him with a handsome vote.

But a public pronouncement like that of Mayor Roberts, upon which a man may actually seek to be elected to important office, is a sad commentary upon the condition of affairs there and the unnatural mental attitude of the people.

Public or professional gambling is a far-reaching and devilish business.

In its protection may be seen many shadows and heard many sounds; the blare of shrill noises, mistakenly called music, part of the entertainment of the gullible; the clink of the ice in the liquor, and liquor is necessary to deaden men's judgments and drug their feelings so they may accept their losses more easily; the dizzy whirl of slot machines and roulette wheels; the shrill voices of drunken women and the aimless staggering of drunken men; pots of rouge to conceal the sickly whiteness and any make-shift to hide the hollow-eyes; the weak grin of the defaulter made dumb by his losses; the rodent eyes of the professional gambler as he sees a likely prospect and prepares the web.

When a people voluntarily permits public gambling, there is not only something the matter with their morals but their mentalities have become stunted or diseased.

Legalized gambling is legalized pick-pocketing.

And in a city where the law actually sanctions it, a whisky barrel at every corner is appropriate.

THE BANKING BILL

The framers of the Wisconsin constitution realized, as have all intelligent persons at every period in our history, that safe, sound and properly responsive banks are as important to a community as a roof to a house in the winter.

Provision was therefore made in the constitution suspending the usual right of a majority of the legislature to pass a bill affecting banks and requiring that banking measures receive the vote of two-thirds of each house of the legislature.

Our constitutional fathers wanted no monkey work in the banking business. And they were entirely right. Today with our nine hundred odd banks in Wisconsin we have the knowledge that they are owned by about 150,000 stockholders, practically all of whom are Wisconsin residents with that keen and natural interest that everyone must have in his homeland.

It does not require a person with an alarming attitude to envision the possibilities of permitting an extension of chain-banking, although those possibilities are all alarming.

Those interested in preventing chain banking are becoming restive, impatient, that the legislature has passed no banking law in the four months it has been at work, but such impatience is unwarranted.

The legislature has a heavy burden, many matters of perhaps equally great importance, and in relation to the banking measure it has a particularly difficult and delicate task.

It is better to spend plenty of time in study and reflection than to rush a measure through that may prove inadequate.

THE "SPANISH VETO"

The fall of the Spanish throne marks the passing of the last Christian monarch who had the right to veto in the papal elections of the Catholic church.

In olden times, the Papacy of the Catholic church had been, in various degrees, intimately connected with the temporal affairs of European nations. At times the lay rulers of the Christian states dominated the church, and at others, the temporal powers of the popes were supreme.

During the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries when central Europe was known as the Holy Roman Empire, the temporal monarchs acquired a right of veto over the election of a pope. This traditional power continued to exist until the beginning of the twentieth century when the Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria as head of the House of Hapsburg used the right of veto—often called the Spanish veto—for the last time in opposing Cardinal Rampolla as the successor of Pope Leo XIII, and causing the election of Cardinal-Sarto, who became Pius X.

One of the first acts of the new pontiff was the abrogation of the Spanish veto in 1904, which severed the last remaining link in the power of any monarch to control papal elections.

The Spanish monarchy and the church have always been intimately connected. One of the first announcements of the new republican government was that it would proceed at an early date to effect the complete separation of the church and state in Spain.

This may not prove so daring as it sounds, for the separation of church and state does not mean hostility toward the church but merely toward the connection.

KILLER BURKE'S SENTENCE

Michigan usually has a prompt administration of justice when it comes to the conviction of criminals. The case of Fred Burke, "the most dangerous man alive," was made easy by his prompt confession of murder guilt, but the final denouement in this case was pathetic.

This cold-blooded killer, who stood accused of more major crimes than any other American of his time, including the St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago, escaped, on a plea of guilty, with a life sentence for second degree murder, the court giving consideration to the claim that he was intoxicated when the St. Joseph crime was committed.

Instead of forfeiting his life, or at least his liberty for life, as he deserved, the sentence for second degree murder makes it possible for Burke to apply for a parole after serving twelve years.

No wonder Burke was jovial and happy upon his reception at Marquette prison. He was exhilarated at the prospect of a comfortable penitentiary and eventual freedom. Leo Brothers of Chicago received fourteen years for killing Lingle. Burke and Brothers can congratulate each other and laugh at society's maudlin sentiment.

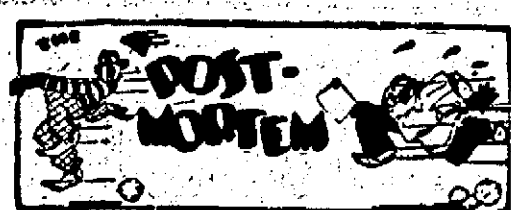

Such a thing could not have happened in Canada or England. The fact that our killers meet that sort of justice is one reason why our homicide is eleven per 100,000 while that of England is less than one.

Opinions Of Others

LUCKY LAKE DWELLERS

New York has begun to worry about its water supply. Consuming nearly a billion gallons a day it has to go far afield for its water, because the Hudson is a tidal river, salty for a long distance from its mouth. Therefore huge reservoirs have been constructed in the Catskills and elsewhere, to store a sufficient supply for the seven million inhabitants of the metropolis. Because of abnormally dry seasons these reservoirs have been lowered almost to the danger point, and since it takes years to prepare new ones and pipe their reserves to the city, there is nothing for New York to do but conserve the daily supply until rainfall comes to the rescue.

Dwellers on the Great Lakes can now realize their good fortune. They have an unfailing source, and they find it difficult to conceive the troubles of people who can't get enough water, or are bothered because there has been a deficiency of rainfall. Detroit News.

"O NCE I understood," says ex-King Alf. "Spain wanted me no more. I lost no time in leaving." and the Spanish have been trying to tell Alf for the last eighteen years that they wanted him to leave. Well, you can't blame Alf for having difficulty in understanding. After all, a job is a job and Alf's job paid him pretty well while it lasted.

Some Texas cops arrested Count von Luckner and gave him a ride to the police station. When he told them who he was, they gave him a lot of laughs. "Texas? Don't they know the war is over yet?"

Yet, the count has been in an American automobile accident and arrested by American cops. Give him time. He'll learn all about the advantages of living in the land of the free.

Funny People, these Royalty

And while we are on the subject of royalty, take a look at Princess Ileana, who, Tillie, is quite a girl.

Ileana is only twenty two years old, but she's been reported engaged to the Prince of Wales, to King Boris, to Prince Humbert of Italy, Count Alexander of Hohenburg, in her time, and now she's supposed to be engaged to marry Archduke Anton de Bourbon.

Not bad, Ileana, not bad. Easily as good as a lot of American movie queens. But, in the words of Peggy Hopkins Joyce:

"Marry 'em, there's more money in it."

A couple fellows held up a bank at Benton this week and the newspaper story referred to them as "two young Americans." They probably got sore because they weren't referred to as gentlemen.

Bank robbing is getting to be a profession. Particularly in Wisconsin.

An Open Letter to Hortense

Dear Hortense,
You might as well stay down in Florida. Business is only fair and besides when we went past the dump yesterday we couldn't smell very much of interest to you. Of course, the wind was in the other direction and anyway, your public doesn't give a hoot whether you come back or not. And the Wandering Musician will play you with the world's biggest fly-swatter if you come within five hundred miles of Appleton.

France is going to have another presidential election. But that's only because Procy Domergue (or however you spell it) is tired of the job. Being president in France is not very exciting but the French are always sure about who will answer the telephone in at least one governmental residence.

Just Folks

THE CURIOUS EFFECT OF GOLF

He shot one round in seventy-three. But that was twenty years ago. And never since that day has he. Contrived to get a score so low. The fatal seven still spoils his card. That's what he calls his frequency. And all his golfing joy is marred. Forever by that seventy-three. Though many a hundred score he makes, And oft his best is eighty-eight. In rage and pain his head he shakes. Because his shots aren't always straight. Though twenty years have come and gone Since that one day from trouble-free. He calmly says to every one: "I ought to shoot in seventy-three!"

Despite the countless games he's lost, And all the faulty strokes he's played, He still remembers to his cost, That once a perfect score he made.

The blundering rounds are swept aside, The best is all he cares to claim. For twenty years the man has cried: "Somehow I'm sadly off my game."

He would not let the worst he's done Remain to prove his lack of skill. "Some bad days come to everyone," He probably says and always will.

But once you go home come his way And since upon the starting tee For twenty years we've heard him say: "I ought to shoot a seventy-three." (Copyright, 1931, Edgar A. Guest)

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 10, 1921.
A packed house greeted the Eagles minstrel troupe at the Appleton theatre the previous evening.

A chapter of P. O. E. Slatorhood had recently been organized in Appleton by Mrs. Reeves, of Iowa state organizer of the Slatorhood.

W. B. Clark left this morning for Green Bay on a day's business trip.

A card party and social for military people of Appleton was to be given by Charles O. Baer camp at the rooms in the new armory May 15.

Twelve Lawrence university athletes headed by Coach Koehler left this morning for Minneapolis to meet Hamlin in a dual meet the following day.

The Lawrence university baseball team was to leave in two weeks for a week's southern trip during which several games were to be played.

William J. Tesch and P. F. Wetzel were to be leaving this morning for Washington, Philadelphia, New York and other eastern points on a trip of about two weeks.

TEN YEARS AGO

Thursday, May 5, 1921.
The allies that day served Germany with an ultimatum demand acceptance of their reparations terms by May 12. The allies were to proceed on May 12 to occupy the Ruhr valley and to take other military and naval steps if Germany did not accept unequivocally.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Herman and children were Milwaukee visitors that day.

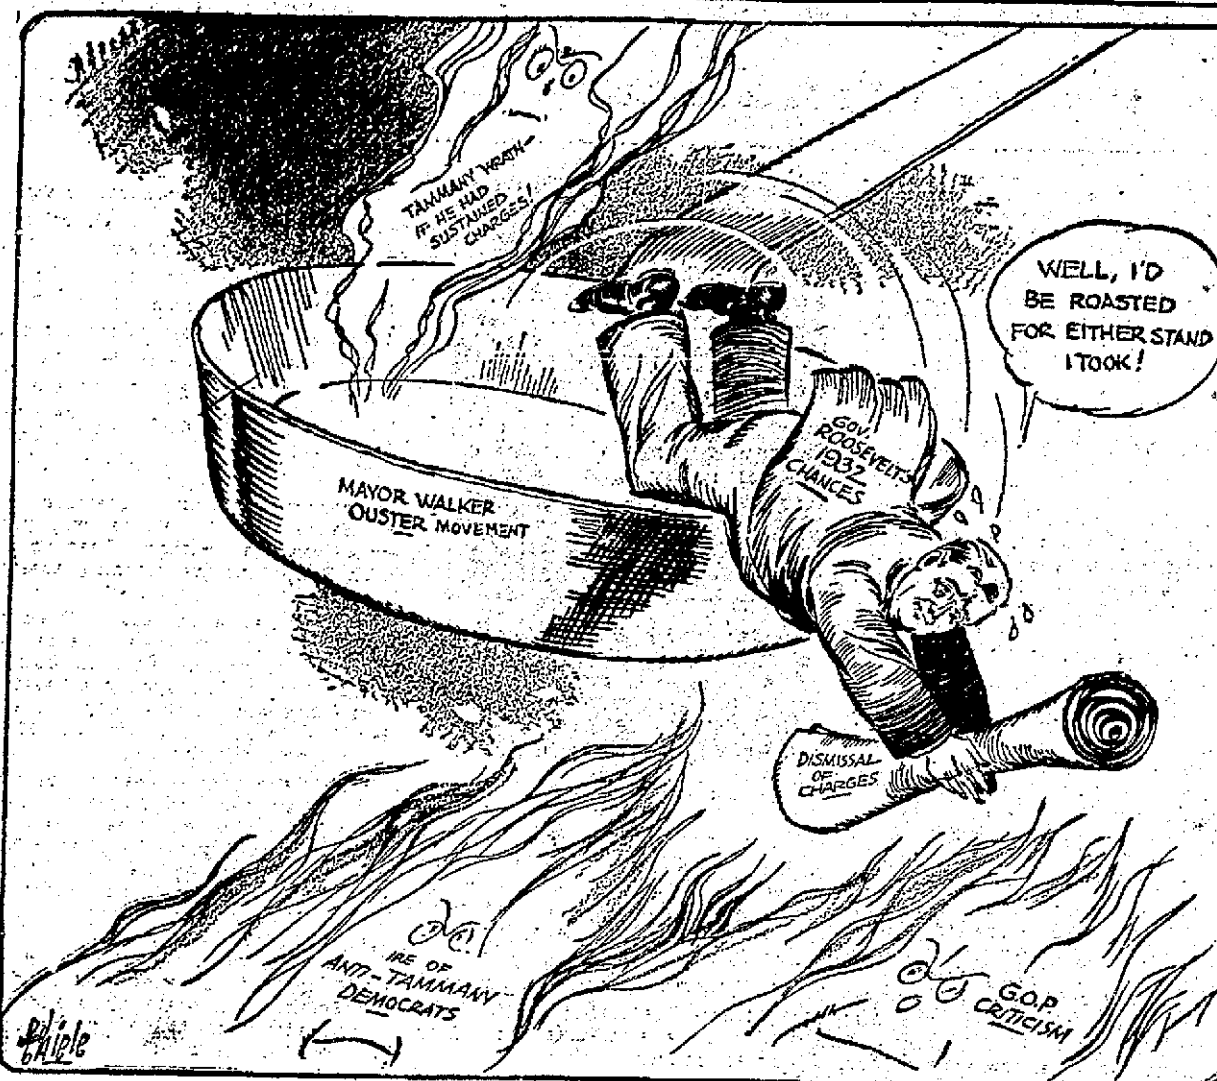

Miss Frances Suchy, daughter of Adam Suchy, 1229 Packard-st., and Arthur Jahmke, son of Gustave Jahmke, Center, were married at 1:30 the previous afternoon in St. Joseph's parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zuchke, 653 State-st., entertained about 50 friends and relatives in honor of their fifth wedding anniversary the preceding Wednesday evening.

Miss Linnea Holcomb, daughter of Samuel Holcomb, and John Young, son of Jacob Young, 1108 De Forest-ave., were married at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

Application for a marriage license was made that day by Walker F. Vance and Ruth E. Harper, Appleton.

Personal Health Talks

BETTER GO ARMED IN TEXAS

In the past five years, 2,305 persons, residents or transients, have bitten the dust in Texas, not from bullets but from typhoid fever. If you're lifting the trail down that way you need no steel plate vest, nor even a six-shooter, but you had better be immunized against typhoid fever if you are still ready to roam.

It is very simple. All you need to do is drop in and pass the time of day with your family doctor or any good doctor, each Saturday or Monday for three successive days.

He will give you a little shot of the "vaccine" and that's all. His needle is nice and sharp and his injection technique halfway decent. It will bother you rather less than a mosquito bite would. Some individuals get a headache and feel pretty rotten for a day or part of the day after the first "dose" of typhoid vaccine, or "vaccine," but that only goes to indicate how very sick they would be if they contracted the fever.

I just happen to pick on Texas for the purpose of this exhortation. I don't know, but I imagine Texas has no more typhoid fever than the other states have, considering population and extent of territory. Texas is a big lot. The map doesn't do it justice. You have to try crossing it, even in the fastest train or car, in order to comprehend how big it is.

Wherever you are going, whether by train, plane, bus, boat, or bike, it is a very good plan to make sure you won't find any typhoid fever lying in wait for you on your travels.

Just about never know where you will encounter the ubiquitous bacilli. The new milkman, the waiter, the cook, the chap who serves you with hot dogs, the nice kind lady who fixes up and fetches to the church parlors the flaking good meat pie or baked spaghetti, may be a carrier. You should worry if you're immunized.

It is well to get this typhoid prophylactic treatment two or three months in advance of your projected journey or vacation. Remember it requires several weeks time for the full protective effect of immunity to develop, after you've received the three hypodermic injections of the bacilli.

Just what does the doctor inject? He injects a measured number of killed typhoid bacilli, together with measured numbers of killed bacilli, phage, and antibodies. B. bacilli, they've been killed by heat enough to kill the germs; as in pasteurization, yet not enough to destroy the chemical substance of the germ body. So you receive a dose of the chemical substance of the germs, but no live germs.

Typical of the immunization is positively not "inoculation," you see. Inoculation means implanting disease or the virus of disease. No such things is concerned in typhoid immunization. Nor is it vaccination, strictly speaking, for full vaccination does against smallpox, we do actually inoculate with the virus of disease, and the vaccination is not successful or protective unless the patient develops the disease, vacinia.

Nowadays typhoid carriers, polluting the food they handle or serve, cause the most serious epidemic of typhoid fever. In Texas last year, for instance, in one outbreak of thirty cases a milk dealer proved to be the carrier. In another of 40 cases other food handlers were (innocently) responsible.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

"Radio Knife," "Bee" and Hot Dogs

This looks like the end of your famous method. It seems a shame after all the effort you have put into it. Well, life is just one new thing after another. (C.S.B.)

Answer—No, it is just the latest description of diathermy (electro-coagulation) of the tonsils probably by a new science editor employed by the press agency. The first fanciful name given the method by a press writer was "radio knife." Then another reporter made the front page with a story telling how some throat specialist first tried the method to cook a hot dog. Now this one comes through with a story about putting a "bee" on the tonsils. News distributing agencies simply won't distribute unless the yarn is suitably dressed up with some such plausible, far-fetched legend.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

AS all the Tynmites started out, we Scouty said, "Let's look about and see just how this ship is made. I've never seen one like this." And so they rambled here and there. In fact, they all looked everywhere and, with their eyes wide open, not one portion did they miss.

The boat was paddled by a man. Along the Grand Canal it ran and the Tynmites knew the way to make it glide instead of jump. That's why the Tynmites felt no bump. Said Coppy, "Look! He does the work as if it's so much play."

Three shafts rose high to carry sails and Clowney questioned, "Say, what's that man? Why don't he let the wind do the work? Let's see it put that sail in the stream!" Then Scouty smiled and said, "There is no wind today to make us whizz. That's why he uses paddle power. That is the wisest scheme."

It wasn't long until a breeze, picking up and moved them on with ease. The sail was raised and, my, what fun to see it puff out wide. "Getting cold," one Tynmy said. And then he promptly ducked his head beneath a little cabin roof and shouted, "Come inside!"

The others joined him. Soon they all were plenty tired enough to fall asleep. The boat moved on, and on until it reached Sochoev. "Wake up!" the Travel Man cried out. "Get ready, lads, 'cause we're about to hop ashore at Sochoev. We are anchoring there right now!"

When they landed safe and sound, the happy Tynmites found a Tynmy and Scouty said a funny sight. "Well, look at that," said he. It was an Ice-man. What a treat! He pushed the ice right down the street. "Twas in a big wheelbarrow and looked cold as cold could be. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

(The Tynmites get a laugh out of Clowney in the next story.)

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Random notes in a Washington Day Book:

Maj. Gen. Charles Saltzman, chairman of the federal radio commission, admits that had he been a self-effacing sort of chap in his younger days his career might have taken a widely different course.

"Back in the '90s, I was a young lieutenant of cavalry—the only officer at a lonely post in the west. One day the inspector general came around on one of his periodic visits. In the mail that awaited him was a notice that any officer with two years' experience and the recommendation of his post commander could enter a competitive examination that would lead to a berth in the army signal corps.

"The general tossed it over to me, saying: 'There's a chance for you, young fellow.'"

"Well, I had the experience. I had a pretty good opinion of myself. And I was post commander. So, I sat down and wrote my own recommendation, took the test and entered the signal corps.

"My experience there led me to my present post."

Cherish Precedents
Precedents are cherished in the United States supreme court. Even the racks on which are hung the justices' coats and hats are arranged according to seniority.

But perhaps the most antiquated of the practices of the court is the use of goose quill pens. These relics of the past are distributed on the counsel tables every morning at the start of a session. And they are objects eagerly sought by souvenir hunters.

In fact, they are so prized as souvenirs that court attaches find it difficult at times to keep an adequate supply on hand. When the court reconvened the other day after an extended recess, a new supply had to be purchased.

Capitol Glimpses
General Pershing entering a fashionable hotel on Sixteenth street just before luncheon on Sunday morning. And Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Hurd, Secretary of War, Mr. Clegg, and the former Senator Philip of Colorado following a bit later, all attending a luncheon party being given by the general.

John McDuff, democratic whip of the house, and Albert Vestal, republican whip, conversing earnestly in the capital restaurant after word of Nick Longworth's death had been told them.

Senator Austin, the new senator from Vermont, strolling through the corridors of the capitol.

And Senator Sheppard of Texas sitting alone in the senate restaurant apparently in deep thought.

GOMPERS' APPEAL

On May 7, 1917, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, sent an appeal by cable to the executive committee of the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Delegates at Petrograd after the czar had been overthrown.

The appeal said in part: "The gravest crisis in the world's history is now hanging in the balance and the course which Russia will take will have a determining influence upon the democracy of the world."

"The Russian revolution is a democracy or a dictatorship. Now that Russian democracy is overthrown, neither the American government nor the American people apprehend the wisdom and experience of Russia in the great effort to maintain the freedom you have already achieved, and to solve the grave problems yet before you."

"We earnestly appeal to you to abolish all forms of autocracy and despotism and to establish and maintain for generations yet unborn the priceless treasures of justice, freedom, democracy and humanity."

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Bits and habits of New Yorkers, some culled from the better biographers:

Noel Coward, English playwright, actor, does all his writing in bed and with a pencil.

Lyda Roberti, comedienne, sends part of her pay-check to her parents, a famous European circus couple, now retired in Java. Says she sent her father $100 and made him a millionaire.

Peter Arno, cartoonist, keeps a little movie camera in his home.

Deems Taylor, opera composer, is a window-shopper.

Leo Retsman, bandsman, contends his face and shaves his hair over his eyes while baton-waving.

Unemployed King
Sime Silverman, editor of a Broadway showmen's weekly, has a foreign car, but has never been to Europe.

Libby Holman, tune moaner, is an inveterate telephoner. Robert Benchley, humorist, gut-faws.

Alfred Lunt, premier actor, seldom wears hats. George Jean Nathan, critic, always smokes cigars.

Gertrude O'Neil, comedienne, knits sweaters for her husband. George Gorshwin, jazz composer, eats cornflakes and bran before going to bed.

Jesse Crawford, movie organist, wears a different suit at each show throughout the week.

And Faustina Wirkus, marine sergeant who was crowned king by the natives of La Gonave, island off Haiti, is in town, looking for a job.

Table Talk

The circus sensation this spring was Clyde Beatty and his tiger-tam act. Fans elsewhere will see him in a different circus, if at all. He was borrowed by John Ringling for the New York appearance only.

Along with 2 lions and tigers in a cage, Beatty holds a chair and a pistol who was crowned king by the natives of La Gonave, island off Haiti, is in town, looking for a job.

Beatty started making himself friendly with the beasts at the Cincinnati zoo, but he doesn't fool himself. He knows quite well the friendship is not reciprocated except, perhaps by one Leo, who is, in Beatty's words, a stooge, meaning that his ferocious clanging is only part of the routine.

The burlesque theaters, which have broken out like a rash in the Broadway zone, have begun a rivalry for poster prominence. One began the freak billing by presenting "Fanny Fortson from France." Another promptly called its star "Sally Smells from Cologne."

The posters are changed weekly and "Ada Onion from Bermuda" is prominently rivaled by "Helen Lopez from Waterloo."

A customer said the only laugh was on the audience. The girls are the same by each new name.

"If a businessman cannot laugh," says Sir Thomas Lipton, "he has no right to get rich." Most businessmen now, however, will be content to grin and bear it.

What? 3 meals a day.. and only 1 suit in 500 days?

You've been taking care of the inner man all right... but man alive... what about the chap the inner man is supporting?

Or didn't you realize that a man could style-starve himself?

It would be different if prices were high.

But here you are offered fine suits in beautiful fabrics at $25.

Dinner is now being served to men who are hungry for fashion.

MELLON SPEECH PRESENTS VIEW OF PRESIDENT

Regarded as Reply to Those Who Want Action by Government

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — (CFA) — Secretary Mellon's speech aimed at "doubtful experiments" in breaking down the standard of living, coupled with the statement of Julius Barnes that all tariff changes should be made through the tariff commission, may be considered as the Hoover administration's answer to those who are asking for the guidance of the government in seeking a way out of depression.

Mr. Mellon's stressing the importance of "individual initiative" was regarded as a significant reply to those who want the government to get into the management of industry and other social experiments as has been the case in Europe. Speaking before the International Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Mellon of course was taking a worldwide view and there were many today who believed that his remarks reflected a conviction that Russia will not come back until private initiative is restored.

The hints given by the administration that living standards must be maintained relate almost entirely to the controversy now going on with respect to reduction of wages. Mr. Mellon has been looked upon by the business world as a man of sound economic views, and hence when he backs up Mr. Hoover in arguing that wage reductions mean lowered living standards there is added weight to the pronouncement.

Opposes New Systems
Mr. Mellon's speech was carefully prepared for the occasion, namely the meeting of the international chamber, and while there was no attempt to tell the delegates from any country what their governments should do, the general principle of freedom of initiative applies everywhere as a fundamental desire on the part of business men. It was more with the idea of giving the visiting delegates a perspective which is really designed to prevent panicky efforts to develop new economic systems or drastic changes in the relationships of government and business.

Mr. Mellon's words were reassuring to the delegates, because while he did not underestimate the seriousness of the depression, he insisted that by patience and an adherence to fundamentals which have built prosperity in the past, the world would ultimately come out of its present crisis.

Another significant development was the statement of Mr. Barnes, who precipitated a controversy last week by proclaiming the necessity of tariff changes. Senator Watson of Indiana and other Republican leaders attacked Mr. Barnes' speech on the ground that he was tearing down the Republican tariff policy. Now, Mr. Barnes, presumably with the knowledge of the White House makes it clear that any tariff changes should come through the processes provided by law, namely, the new tariff commission which has power to invoke flexible provisions of the tariff.

As was pointed out in these dispatches two days ago the administration feels that the way to cure the tariff difficulty is to adjust the rates through careful investigation by the tariff commission. The fact that Mr. Barnes made his statement Tuesday is taken to mean that the administration will put the whole weight of its influence back of the new tariff commission, which of course was enacted by Republican votes as much as by Democratic.

Who's Who On The Appleton-Post-Crescent

(This is the fifty-second of a series of articles about members of the staff of the Appleton Post-Crescent. The articles will seek to acquaint readers of this newspaper with those persons as individuals and also will discuss the nature of their work. Members of the staff are presented in the order of their length of service. The fifty-third article will appear tomorrow.)

Richard Wenzlaff

With two brothers in the printing trade it was most unlikely that Richard Wenzlaff, assistant make-up man, would not absorb some of their interest in it.

His first job was being newsboy for the old Evening Crescent. Mr. Wenzlaff has always lived in Appleton. He went to the Fifth Ward school for four years and the Zion Lutheran school for five years. He became interested in his printing and machine shop courses during his four years at Vocational school, which probably decided his choice of following the work of Carl and Al Wenzlaff, already employed by the Post-Crescent. He worked as a shipping clerk for a year and a half before coming to the newspaper in 1926.

Mr. Wenzlaff, like his brothers, enjoys boating, fishing and hunting. He is a trustee of the Appleton Yacht club and formerly was the recording secretary of the organization. Of all these outdoor sports he likes fishing best, especially when he comes home with a good catch of pike.

As a make-up man he assists John

Kampo in laying out the various pages of the paper according to schedule, putting news and advertising material in their respective positions.

Mr. Wenzlaff lives with his mother, Mrs. Minnie Wenzlaff, 1015 W. Packard-st. He is a member of Zion Lutheran church.

Your Birthday

If May 8th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 3 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 10:45 a. m. from 1:30 p. m. to 2:45 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The planetary aspects of May 8th indicate a day of activity during which much that is worth while can be accomplished. It is a propitious occasion for the initiation of new enterprise, or for lopping off dead lumber, and preparing for future unclouded growth and development.

A child born on this May 8th promises to be sturdy in constitution and in character. It will possess high courage and will always be stronger in attack than in defense. It will not be stubborn, but, once it has made up its mind, only very urgent reasons will ever induce it to change.

Born on May 8th, you are too fond of your ease and comfort to ever become an outstanding success, although you are endowed by nature with many traits that would enable you to achieve much. You however, lack that fighting spirit which always distinguishes those who go ahead. You will not make sacrifices in order to secure a goal. You would rather lose and be comfortable, than win and abate one iota of your ease.

Your personality is very attractive. You shine as a conversationalist, and you are a good story-teller. You read a good deal, principally fiction, but generally look at the best chapter to see if it ends happily. If it fails to do so, you are rather disposed to "chuck it." Your friends are numerous, but your close intimates are few. Many like you, while only a few, very few, love you. Your mind is a keen one. Your conceptions are abortive, as you are rarely willing to go through the period of travail in order to bring them to birth.

The opposite sex is attracted to you, and you yourself are not immune to its charms. You will experience a variety of infatuations—as unsatisfying as inconsistent—and only in later years will you meet your real mate—the one destined to take you out of yourself, and help you to make of your life what the Stars intended it should be.

Rewards Do Not Hurry Slow Child

BY ANGELO PATRI
"Pussy, the teacher says you are not doing very well in your lessons. What's the matter?"

"I don't know. She says I'm lazy but I'm not."
"Now listen, Pussy. You have to work. You don't want to be left back. Tell you what I'll do. You get a hundred percent each day this week in spelling and arithmetic, not exactly a hundred you know, as near as you can get to a hundred, ninety-eight, maybe ninety-nine, and a hundred, you get high marks every day, and I'll take you to the city to see the show."

"O good. I'm crazy to see that show, mother. I'll surely get a hundred." And she did.

Every afternoon she reported a perfect mark, or nearly so, and even showed papers to prove it. "There now. You see? You can do fine work when you want to. I'll take you to the show tomorrow." But she did not take her to the show. There was a sad reason.

Yesterday's morning's mail brought a letter to mother. It was from the teacher and it read something like this: "Dear madam: Unless your daughter Amelia does better work than she has done this past week she will have to work with the lower grade during some of her free time in order to hold her place in her grade. If she shows no improvement next week over this one, she will not be promoted like every subject of her grade this week."

"Pussy, how could you tell me such a lie? Why did you tell me?" "Because, mother, I wanted to go to the show."

Rewards will not help a failing child. Children do not fail because of a lack of desire to do well. All children would do well if they could. Some fundamental weakness causes their difficulty and until that is discovered and removed there is little hope of improvement.

Sometimes this trouble is caused by poor health. Healthy children are usually good children provided their home lives and their school associations are what they ought to be. Children would do well if they could. Look first to the material well being of the failing child. Set that right as far as possible. If the failure is serious consult a specialist.

Character faults are often based upon physical failings. A child who is undernourished is weak throughout. A temptation is harder to resist when the blood supply is not up to standard. All of us, grown-ups and children alike, need every ounce of power we can muster to fight off temptation. Clear thinking demands a healthy medium for its operations.

The example of those about them is highly important. Industry, endurance, persistence, witnessed in the home day by day have their influence on the character of the child. Spiritual health coupled with physical health in the home is reflected in the children. The attitudes of those with whom the child

MISS GUENTHER TO BECOME BRIDE OF JOHN COURT

The marriage of Miss Clementine Guenther, daughter of Mrs. William Guenther, 1358 W. Prospect-ave, and John R. Court, son of E. R. Court, 224 E. Commercial-st, will take place at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Congregational church. The Rev. H. E. Peabody will perform the ceremony. Miss Cora Guenther and Charles O. Guenther will be the attendants.

Children are associated, upon whom they must depend, are all powerful in determining the attitudes and the standards they acquire.

Rewards will stimulate the child who CAN exert himself. They cannot generate power. Power is generated by healthy food, fresh air, sleep, play, and work under the best possible conditions. Power is inspired by purpose, will, the deep desire to be and to do what is right. The whole matter is based upon health; health of body, health of mind.

Let a reward come as a surprise after work accomplished. It sits better and it is less likely to stimulate the child to wrong actions.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

IT BABY HAS COLIC

COLIC comes suddenly. Your first intimation that something is wrong may be a warning cry in the night. If you have a bottle of Castoria handy you needn't worry, for a little of this pure vegetable remedy will soon have baby his happy self again; let him go back to sleep.

Castoria is always the sensible thing to give an ailing child. When a child is restless, fretful, with coated tongue, bad breath and lack of appetite, it is a mother's standby. Most mothers give Castoria an important place in their homes. Ready for sour stomach, constipation, or upset. When buying Fletcher's Castoria always look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. This identifies the genuine product.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc.

JOAN's voice decided her. "Don't try it, please, Sarah. You look frightened now." Frightened? The girl whom Ted had chosen should never be able to say that to her. She would go through with her stunt now. Maybe Joan was being kind. Some calmer intuition told her that she was. But she wouldn't back down now.

"Sarah, don't try it! I know you're in a daredevil mood. I've had 'em myself. But you'll get hurt. I know you'll get hurt!" That was Corinne.

"Sarah, if you can do it, go to it, and if you can't, stop." Even Joan Brady was taking an interest.

But Sarah climbed the ladder, grabbed the rope, and sat down on the wing. This wasn't half bad. It was almost fun. The people below looked rather foolish and worried.

She laughed and called to the girl at the piano. Then she started to sing a popular song and the words drifted down.

Corinne had an idea suddenly. "Drag the radio out, turn it high, and everybody dance!" she told Jack and Harry. "If nobody watches her, maybe she won't care so much about breaking her neck."

A minute later, while Sarah swayed above the crowd, the people swayed into couples and started to dance. She smiled wisely. She had seen Corinne's hurried instructions being carried out.

"But just the same I'll do my stunt, and do it well," she said. "If they think they are going to make me give it up, they are mistaken."

"Sarah!"

She turned to the call. Ted was swinging on the banisters that surrounded the balcony.

"Were you speaking to me?" she asked.

You are being dumb. You can't turn somersaults!

"Oh, can't I? A lot you know about it!"

And she promptly turned one.

"Well, the rope might break."

"Don't be afraid, Theodore. It's my neck and not yours that would suffer."

"Can't you take anything serious?"

She noticed now that he was really worried.

"Yes, I could, but I never have a chance at the things that I could take seriously."

"Well, why didn't you choose a stunt that was less risky?"

"I was a little frightened as she turned back to Ted."

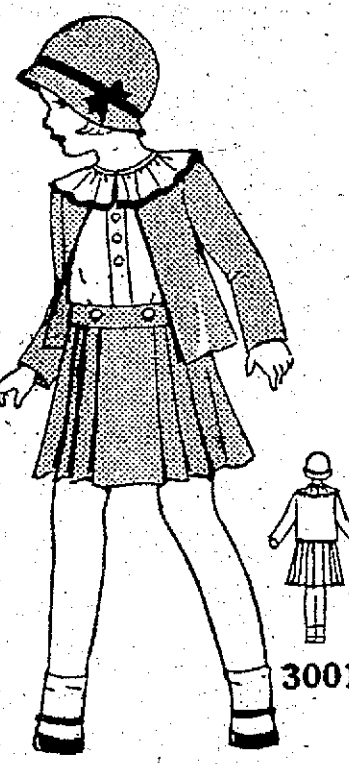

"The ladder, please," she called then.

But when she looked at it her head suddenly spun. She couldn't climb down! Somersaults were easy compared to that descent. She turned another one just to prove it. Her voice was a little frightened as she turned back to Ted.

"Ted, if I swing over near you... it isn't high or far... will you draw the swing in?"

She wondered if he caught the fear in her voice. She didn't care. Suddenly she had to get down.

other way and has now a pleasant circle of friends, a good job, plenty of interests to keep her happy. And having established herself in this pleasant position, like a true female, she has found something else to make her unhappy.

For she's fallen in love with a young man who happens to be very much among those present in the crowd who first ignored her. So her old ache for social success has returned, she sees the man as a glorified being because he is one of the right set, and she refuses to believe that anything, after all, can make her at peace with the world again. Perhaps, Cynthia, if you read this account of your present position you will see for yourself how foolish and unreasonable you are. You have proved once to yourself that there is happiness to be found for everyone. Once you wanted social success, and found you couldn't have it. Yet you managed to survive, and the world is still a pleasant place to live in.

Now you're in love with a man who doesn't love you, and who is in a crowd which doesn't like you. But you mustn't imagine that life will forever be sorrowful without him. You can get along without him, just as you got along without the career you dreamed of. You can make yourself happy again if you'll be as sensible as you were the first time.

Few of us get just what we want in this life, yet most of us jog along fairly contentedly, making the best of it.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

Dear Virginia Vane: I am in love with a married man who has been separated from his wife for some months. She does not appear to care for him, yet she never leaves him alone, but spends all her time making life miserable for us. She will not divorce him, she says, and neither will she permit us to see each other, without making trouble. Please tell me what to do.

DOT.

You seem to be up against a blank wall, and if you're wise, you'll recognize the truth, and go against the dictates of your heart, for the sake of everyone's future happiness.

The man tied to a wife who will not let him go, is in a hopeless position, inasmuch as he cannot himself get a divorce without causing scandal and disgrace. Therefore he has to make the best of a bad job, and get along as well as he can, until such time as his selfish mate decides that she, herself, wants a divorce.

But in the meantime, it is not fair to you, to let you go on hoping and waiting. You may have to wait years. You may waste your youth on the man only to find too late that he's not the right one for you after all. You may spoil your whole life, in the vain attempt to make him happy.

You can't afford to do this, and he shouldn't let you do it. He shouldn't make an effort to see you until he is absolutely free. As things stand now, he can do nothing for you but spoil your reputation and ruin your chance of happiness with anyone else. Because you are in love with him, you do not see the selfishness of his attitude, but truly if he loved you as he should, he would have the strength to give you up until he was in a position to marry you.

You haven't much to hope for, really, because a determined woman, selfishly intent upon spoiling her husband's life, can do a great deal to cause unhappiness. And the wife in this case would seem to be thoroughly oblivious to any but her own interests.

Cynthia writes an interesting letter in which she describes how she found happiness in life, after she'd thought it all gone. Because her mind was bent on social success, she believed herself an utter failure, when society refused to accept her, and she found herself an outsider. However, she pulled herself together, decided to enjoy life again

DON'T USE ROUGE IF YOU HAVE BRONZE HAIR

BY ALICIA HART

The other day I saw a delicate complexioned girl with the most glamorous bronze-tinted chestnut hair in the world who had ruined it all by using vermilion rouge and plenty of it, and pencilling the boldest kind of militantly arched eyebrows.

She could have been a perfect beauty had she used no rouge whatsoever, left her eyebrows exactly as delicate as they grew and rouged her lips with a tone that had orange in it. Her shining bronze hair would have stood out, the cynosure of admiring throngs.

It is curious thing that in this beauty-mad age, so many of you don't begin to appreciate how lovely your soft hair is, how much more ravishing you are made up naturally, delicately.

The staring red cheeks and obvious mouth of last year should be discarded along with short clothes. There is infinite beauty in no color, lots of times. Take the pale ash blonde, the soft honey-colored blonde, the titian-haired, the blue-black haired.

If you are among these, don't you realize what an asset you have in that unusual coloring, how every woman you meet probably envies you from the bottom of her heart?

Your hair, when it has an unusual color, should be the key to your make-up. Dress everything up to it! If you have that gorgeous burnished chestnut hair, restrain that right hand of yours, keep it out of the paint pot and off the eyebrow pencil and dare to wear your face undressed, except for just the right lipstick!

All red-haired girls should go mightily slow on eyebrow pencil, unless they happen to have very pale eyelashes and brows, then make them up slightly. Get your rouge to match your hair.

If you have white hair, use ashes of roses tints, instead of vermilion tones. The former soften your whole appearance. The latter are hard, not the least flattering.

Spring is the time to realize that you probably are better looking than you know. You may be a bit tired of yourself. Begin a regime of careful grooming, pay more attention to make-up, and then see if your head doesn't lift just the least bit more and if others don't pay more attention to you. They will!

MY NEIGHBOR Says —

Orange or lemon sauces blend well with steamed or baked puddings.

If when ironing starched pieces the iron gets sticky it is because the articles are too wet, or too much starch has been used. To remedy this, rub the iron with a cloth dipped in paraffin every time it is taken off the fire.

When using eggs in custards, puddings, sauces, etc. beat slightly. When using them in sponge cakes, puffy omelets, etc. beat well, as it makes the food light.

To cut dried fruits, marshmallows, raisins, etc. use floured scissors.

A bottle of furniture polish on a clean dry mop works wonders on polished floors.

Rubber goods of any sort may be effectively mended with adhesive plaster.

To remove fat from hot soup, pour soup through a piece of white cheese cloth that has been wet in cold water.

Very often there is quite a collection of dirt on gas burners. If this is cleared away the improvement in light is very noticeable.

When boiling eggs, wet them well with cold water before dropping into the hot water and they won't crack.

When cleaning varnished floors or woodwork use cold tea, it will give it a beautiful luster.

Before cooking rice, place it in a colander and pour boiling water over it. Save this water, as it makes excellent starch for blouses, muslin, laces, etc.

Serve tarts with tea or coffee for afternoon refreshments.

BIDS SOUGHT TO COLLECT GARBAGE

Proposed System Discussed Last Night by Council Committee

Neenah—Bids for the general garbage collection are to be received by the city clerk, E. S. Zernick, up to Friday, May 22, at his city hall office, according to arrangements made at a committee meeting of the council Wednesday evening.

The entire sewer collection plan was discussed last night and the city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance to be presented at the city council meeting on Wednesday. The ordinance will cover what constitutes garbage for collection, its disposal, manner and times for collection, manner of wrapping garbage for collection, disposal of tin cans as part of waste, adoption of a uniform metal container from which garbage is collected, and other things which the committee has decided to include in the ordinance.

The general garbage collection plan was one of the main issues of the April election, being approved by a large majority of voters. Since election time has been a constant study both by the board of health and the council in an effort to provide the most adequate system possible for collection and disposal of the garbage about the city. Other communities where the general collection plan is in force have been communicated with in regard to costs, manner of collection, and disposal.

Richards was arrested on Highway 110 near the intersection of the Motorcyle officer W. C. Abel. Abel informed the judge the defendant was nearly involved in an accident at Winnebago prior to the arrest.

RAPRAGER IS RETAINED ON POLICE BODY

William Schmidt, Jr., Appointed to City Planning Commission

Neenah—August Raprager, was reappointed to the police and fire commission for five years by Mayor George Sande at the monthly meeting of the city council Wednesday evening. William Schmidt, Jr., who has served the city as alderman, president of the council, chairman of both the board of public works and finance committee for 16 years, was appointed to the city planning commission to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Norton J. Williams, who recently was appointed a member of the board of education. Both appointments were confirmed by the council.

A plea for a recreation hall was made in a communication from the high school student council. Recently a permit plan was adopted at the public library forbidding students to congregate there. The communication was referred to the committee on education.

The general sewer collection project was introduced in a report by the board of health. The report recommended that collections be made once a week between Nov. 1 and May 1, in residential districts; twice a week between May 1 and Nov. 1; daily during the summer, and twice a week during the winter in the business sections. A further investigation will be made before an ordinance is drawn up.

Consider Three Projects.

Three projects, for which bids will be sought, were introduced by the board of public works. One is a sewer across the blough to the west part of the city and a pump-house, pit and sewer lift equipment.

The second was construction of a storm water sewer on E. Forest-ave, between Ninth-st. and Lake Winnebago, prior to the paving of that street. The third was for from $1,000 to 15,000, depending on the place to be built, behind the retaining wall, with the understanding that Neenah labor be employed as far as possible.

Alderman Carl Loehning suggested that suitable wading facilities be provided at Doty park for children. This matter was referred to the committee on parks and public buildings. Alderman Marten reported the bathroom equipment ready for the opening. The parks and public building committee met after the council meeting to discuss caretakers and an overseer at the bathrooms. Installation of another telephone for the fire department was referred to the fire committee.

A request from Milwaukee owners of Airport Heights for a sewer and water connection with Cecil-st. mains was referred to the water commission and the board of public works. An invitation to attend the annual meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, the latter part of June was accepted.

A motion to change the council meeting nights from the first Wednesday and the evening of the 18th of each month, to the first and third Wednesday, was lost by a 6 to 4 vote. A vote of thanks from the American Legion Auxiliary for use of the city hall auditorium for holding meetings was received.

Court Bill Read. The bill to create a municipal court system in the twin cities, which is before the legislature, was read to the aldermen.

John O'Leary, city attorney, reported that a claim had been made against the city for $1,000 to cover damages received by Frieda Peters, who alleges she fell on a defective walk at 431 S. Commercial-st., fractured her ankle. The claim, the attorney said, was a just one and could be settled for about $165. The council approved such a settlement.

The council appropriated $100 to the Memorial Day committee to assist defraying expenses incurred for the program. The finance committee was authorized to pay an amounting to $13,645.21. Monthly reports of the police department, justices and poor department were accepted. The quarterly report of the sewer of weights and measures was accepted.

Kimberly Ready For Opening Of Fox River Valley League Sunday

MEET APPLETON IN FIRST GAME; HOPE FOR WIN

Record Crowd Expected When Manager Pocan Trots Out His Team

KIMBERLY—Baseball fans around Kimberly will be ready to cheer the arm chairs and their radios Sunday afternoon and swarm to the opening game in the Fox River Valley League which will feature the strong Appleton team and the newly organized Kimberly club here. The game is to start at 2:30 and the park will be full long before that time. The management has made special arrangements to seat Sunday's crowd, which should be a record setting one. Kimberly, under the management of Clarence Pocan, will put into uniform the best baseball team it has put on the field in 12 years. Last year the Kimberly club was given the privilege of strengthening its club but the former management deemed it unwise in a financial way. Now Pocan has gotten together a group of the best players in the valley.

Pocan will be on the mound for the Papermakers and it is rumored that Blundy Jensen of Oshkosh will see service in the back stop position. The Papermaker outfield is like a stone wall and two new men will scoop up the hot ones. Jerry Powell and Joe Muench both with Menasha last year will be in the infield. Powell at third and Muench at short. Firstenberg who played short last year for the Cubs has been shifted over to second. According to Pocan, he has a lot of natural ability but will have to have some one to teach him how to correct faults. Playing beside the veteran Joe Muench, Pocan fig. Firstenberg will learn much. Skill will be the main key. Skill at ways has been a great first baseman but weak with the stick. In the first two practice games his hitting was outstanding and he may be due for a big year. In the outfield the Papermakers have a trio of the best ball hitters in the league in "Butch" Them, Kirkhoff, and Hackbart. Lefty Behr will be held in reserve should Pocan tire. Appleton will be out for blood with a team that made it hot for the champions last year. Manager Len Smith has the same team back in uniform and it is a hard ball club to beat. The Appleton club has been known for its ability with the bat and with a pitcher like Lefty Behr working on the mound they look like a strong aggregation.

LEWIS CLAIMS FRENCH WRESTLER BIT HIMSELF

Milwaukee (AP)—Ed (Shangler) Lewis, a Nekeosha boy, who has done quite well in the grunting game, telegraphed Paul Paloski, Milwaukee wrestling promoter, that the reason he lost his championship title to Henry Deglane at Montreal the other night was because the Frenchman bit himself.

The Montreal commission awarded the match and the title to Deglane after disqualifying Lewis on a foul. Several ring-side testified Lewis bit the Frenchman.

Anyway, Paloski said he had signed Lewis and Joe Savoldi, one time Dime football star, to headline his wrestling card here May 16 and he is now looking for suitable opponents for the two.

MAJOR CASTOFFS IN ASSOCIATION SEEM TO BE DOING WELL

Hitting, Pitching Both Good; Blues Beat Mud Hens in Only Game

BY WILLIAM WEEKES

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—If wallowing major league castoffs plying all over the premises will help a number of former major leaguers have a good chance to get back into the big show.

One of the leading batsmen of the Thomas Jefferson Hickey circuit is Tommy Anzley, now catching for Louisville, who did time with the Cleveland Indians and Chicago Cubs. Anzley has been hitting the ball at a .400 odd clip, and appears to be getting over the weakness that kept him from hanging on in the big leagues.

Noiman McMillan of the Kansas City Blues, who was let out by the Chicago Cubs because of his weakness with the bat, has been well over the .400 mark most of the young season, and has fielded well. Pat Crawford, once of the New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds, is doing term with the Columbus Red Birds, and has been a big help in keeping the reorganized club in the first division. Crawford's batting efforts since the beginning of the campaign have produced an average of better than .400.

Infielder Montague of Indianapolis formerly worked for the Cleveland Indians. He has batted for better than .390, along with Clyde Manion, former Detroit and St. Louis Brown catcher, who is with Milwaukee, and Harry Riccardi, now of Minneapolis, who was with a number of major league clubs.

Among the pitchers, Bryan "Slim" Harris, former Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox hurler, has been going at a great clip with St. Paul. Kent Greenfield, once of the Phillies and Giants, has won a pair since joining Louisville and has not been defeated, while Sergeant George Connolly, the rubber arm of the White Sox staff a few seasons ago, has pitched some fine games for Toledo.

Business was bad in the league yesterday. The weather took another crack at the box offices and rained out three out of the four games. The only contest resulted in a 9 to 2 victory for Kansas City over Toledo, with Eddie Piek's homer with the bases full in the sixth, serving as the important offensive effort of the afternoon. Don Hankins held the Mud Hens to six hits.

HEYDLER TURNS DOWN ST. LOUIS PROTEST

New York (AP)—President John Heydler of the National league, today announced he had disallowed the protest filed by the St. Louis Cardinals on the game the Chicago Cubs won at Chicago April 8.

The score of the game was 4 to 1. The Cardinals had asked that it be replayed.

The protest was based on the decision of Umpire Charles Moran, who had ruled Ruggs Stephenson, Chicago outfielder, had held a ball "momentarily" during a St. Louis batter. St. Louis claimed that ball should have been declared a double.

President Heydler held that the decision was one involving solely the accuracy of the umpire's judgment and that the game shall stand as played.

BROWNS ADOPT PLAN OF SUNDAY TWIN BILL

St. Louis (AP)—The Browns have adopted the Sunday double-header plan, inaugurated last season by the Cardinals, in an effort to lure more customers through the turnstiles.

Ed (Shangler) Lewis, owner of the Browns, announced today a double bill for next Sunday with the Athletics. Monday's game will be moved up as part of the twin attraction, leaving Monday an open date.

The Cardinals, who profited by the double header plan last year, will use it again this season, but probably not as extensively as in 1930, especially if they continue to attract sizeable crowds on week days. Business at the boxoffice has been unusually dull this season for the Browns.

YANKS FINALLY TAKE SERIES FROM SENATORS

Charley Gelbert Hero as Cards Win Overtime Game from Bucs

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
The St. Louis Cardinals could arrange to play nothing but extra-inning games the remainder of the season, they likely would romp home in front of the National League field by a longer margin than they did in 1930.

Thus far Gabby Street's Red Birds have engaged in three extended sessions, and they have yet to lose a decision. Twice they beat out the Chicago Cubs in overtime duels, and yesterday they victimized the Pirates in 13 innings, 6 to 5. In seven rounds of overtime their opponents have been able to score but once.

In contrast, the New York Yankees have indulged in four extra-period affairs and have yet to win one of them. Had they done as well as the Cards, they would be leading the American League chase.

Gelbert Again Hero
Charley Gelbert, shining light of the last world series, was the hero of yesterday's victory over Pittsburgh. The Card shortstop tripled in the thirteenth and scored on Martin's single. He then came through with a brilliant assist to retire the Pirates in their half after they had filled the bases on relief Pitcher Jim Lindsey.

Two National League hurlers had the unhappy experience of pitching four-hit games, yet being charged with defeats. Bill Walker, Giant southpaw, held the Brooklyn Robins to a quartet of blows, only to come up on the losing end, 1 to 0, when the Dodgers grouped one of them with a walk and an outfield fly in the seventh inning. The Giants riddled Phelps and Quinn for five hits, but couldn't score.

Willie Sherdel of the Boston Braves was the other unfortunate finger. The Phils got to him for only four hits, but one of them was Buzz Arlett's fifth homer of the season. It came in the seventh with one on, so the Phils won, 3 to 1.

Yanks Win Series From Nats
The Yankees finally won a series from Washington by taking their final 10 to 7, in a three-hour slugfest. Babe Ruth and Lyn Lary each contributed a homer to the Yanks' 14-hit assault on three pitchers, and Cronin and Bluege did likewise for the losers.

Led by Al Simmons, who cracked two doubles and three singles in five trips, the Athletics enjoyed a field day at the expense of the Boston Red Sox. Homers by Fox and Cochran helped make the score 10 to 3. Earl Webb hit one off Rommel, who went the route for the Mackmen.

Roy Johnson, Detroit rightfielder, hit two doubles and a single, drove in four runs and scored one himself as the Tigers made it two out of three from Chicago, 9 to 4. Two White Sox errors contributed to the Tigers scoring.

Rain caused postponement of the Chicago-Cincinnati engagement at Chicago and cold weather spiced the Indians and Browns at St. Louis.

Donie Bush Has Faith In Applying Despite Miscues

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS

CHICAGO (AP)—Luke Appling, young shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, made 12 errors in the first 15 games of the season. He has muffed easy pop flies, kicked grounders and made wild throws. Some of his misplays have cost Chicago victory. Yet Donie Bush keeps the young Atlanta product everlastingly on the job.

"He's going to be a great ball player," declared the little White Sox leader. "He has major league player written all over him. If I took him out now it would destroy his confidence. The weather has been cold and the White Sox park is a tough spot for a new player. When the wind is from the north some very nasty air currents buzz through the park and some of Appling's errors have been excusable."

Tris Speaker makes a parallel of the cases of Appling and Joe Sewell, when the Alabama was breaking in with Cleveland. "Sewell made more than Appling. He could throw a ball wider than any man I ever saw."

Yet I kept him in the ball game over the protests of the fans. Once Joe found his confidence he developed into one of the best shortstops in the league. The same will happen to Appling."

Appling packs a ton of nerve in his big frame. In a game against St. Louis he was charged with three errors but might have had four. His muffs and fumbles cost Al Thomas a ball game. Yet with the fans giving him sour cheers he finished the game with a brilliant stop and throw on a hard ground ball over close to second base. The error never will get under the boy's hide.

Appling's hitting has suffered through his erratic fielding yet he has punched some long drives for the White Sox and his form at the plate has impressed veteran players who have seen him in action. Even Tris Speaker believes.

The former Cleveland, Boston and Athletics outfielder, ranked with the greatest of all time, is a radio announcer, specializing in baseball. He has watched the new and deader baseball with interest and has concluded that it will ride just as far through the air when well hit, but does not roll so far nor as hard on the ground.

"I've watched the antics of this baseball now since the season opened," he said, "and I have come to the conclusion that if you get a full swing at it, the ball travels as far in the air as it ever did. Maybe it's the raised seams, but the new ball seems to slow down more quickly, once it hits the ground."

"You see infielders making plays they couldn't have touched, or if they did, they couldn't have handled."

Speaker would like to watch some of the great batsmen of his own time, batting the lively ball, or even the new one, under present conditions.

"I'd like to have seen Joe Jackson hitting against it for just one season," he sighed. "I doubt if he'd ever have got him out."

Jackson, Speaker insists, was the greatest natural batter he ever saw, and batting against the new ball, as well as a new one every time one became soured up, would have set a season mark that the boys could only try to better.

NEW BALL SLOWER ON GROUND--SPEAKER

Veteran Star Believes It Travels Just as Far When in Air

Chicago (AP)—The new style baseball is just about the same in the air, but it's slower on the ground. Tris Speaker believes.

ASSEMBLY FAVORS U. W., MARQUETTE GRID GAME

Madison (AP)—As far as the assembly is concerned, the University of Wisconsin and Marquette should meet in football. This was evidenced yesterday when the lower house passed a joint resolution endorsing a game.

The committee on public welfare, which heard the resolution, reported to the Assembly:

"Appearance for the bill; Assemblyman Frederick W. Krez, and member of the cheese federation; Assemblyman Jerome Foz, notary public; Joe Westlund, member of the assembly; Walter P. Knapke, member of the assembly and steely Jack. The preponderance of evidence presented was to the effect that such a game would be conducive to the public welfare provided proper precautions were taken to preserve order."

PUPILS FASHION ARTICLES TO FIT THEIR STUDIES

Ingenious students in the Latin and English classes of Miss Ruth Parkinson, McKinley Junior high school, have finished a series of projects as a part of their study contracts.

With a few brown twigs, a tiny scrap of linen, one ninth grade student constructed a raft one half inch in diameter as a part of the story of the Odyssey studied by the class. Others modeled the head of Homer in pieces of white soap. Several Parthenons were carved in soap, showing the facade of the Greek temple.

It Is Said--

That something definite must be happening to the weather when seed tea is found on nearly every cafeteria counter in town.

That five members of Oney Johnston post rifle team entered in a state contest, where the boys copped second honors recently had their pictures taken. In the photos there are three cups or trophies indicating the boys might have won more than second place at some time or other.

But now it develops, through close scrutiny, that the engraving of the cups indicates awards—but not in rifle shooting or marksmanship but rather—photography.

LAY CORNERSTONE OF BUILDING NEXT COMMENCEMENT DAY

Plans for Ceremony for Paper Chemistry Building Not Completed

The cornerstone of the new Lawrence college Institute of Paper Chemistry building will be laid on Commencement day, June 3, according to Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college. Although the laying of the cornerstone of the new institute building will take place as part of the Commencement week, program no definite program for the ceremonies has yet been arranged.

Steel work on the building started early this week and the skeleton of the first floor is partially completed. The drainage system for the basement and first floor laboratories is being installed now, and pouring concrete for the first floor will begin as soon as the drainage system is completely installed.

Bricks for sections of the side walls of the new building are expected to arrive this week and masons will begin to lay them as soon as the steel and concrete work is completed. The outside of the structure will be finished with Lannon stone to match the Alexander gymnasium almost directly across South River-st. The building is expected to be completed by Aug. 1.

In the above deal East has the choice between a suit and a No Trump bid as Fourth Hand. His hand fully meets the requirements for either, but it is generally recognized that the original bid of Two of a suit is somewhat stronger than Two No Trump for the reason that it not only indicates fully as high Quick Trick value but in addition thereto shows the location of certain probable tricks.

At Contract 150 Aces should not influence the No Trump bid. If game is to be made it must be for, and Three No Trumps can be bid on the second round just as readily as Two No Trumps on the first round.

At Auction, of course, East would start the bidding with No Trump for he has no particular reason to open with a bid of Two of a suit or No Trump.

WISN tonight. The exact time of the broadcast has not been determined but probably will be around 7:45 or 8 p. m.

Salient Points of Bidding

Contract: South, West and North pass and East opens the bidding with Two Spades. South passes and West bids Three Spades. He might readily bid Two No Trumps for the indications are that his scattered honors would be sufficient in view of partner's original bid. With four Spades to the Queen, however, it seems preferable to first assist. At the same time he should not jump the bid to Four for he is perfectly willing to have East shift his bid to No Trump if he should desire to do so. North passes and East now shows the probability of his Spade being a four card suit and likewise his general strength by bidding Three No Trumps, which concludes the bidding.

Auction: South, West and North pass and East obtains the declaration for his Fourth Hand opening bid of One No Trump.

The Play

South opens the Jack of Hearts and East takes the trick with the Queen. East plays the Ace, King and Ten of Spades, overtaking the latter with the Queen in Dummy. A small Club is then led from Dummy and the Jack dressed in East's hand.

The Five of Spades is led by Declarer and overtaken with the Six in Dummy. The Queen of Diamonds is led and answered, the trick being taken by South with the King.

South leads another Heart which East takes with the Ace. East takes the Ace of Diamonds followed by the Three of Hearts, which Dummy takes with the King. Dummy then takes the Jack of Diamonds and leads the Seven of Clubs. Since the King of Clubs does not fall, Declarer must lose a trick in that suit and make but five odd.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions at 1:30 concerning your bridge problems. Write to him care of the paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

AMENDMENTS THREATEN TO KILL MEASURE

Proposed Education Bill
Completely Changed
by Proposals

Madison—(P)—The interim committee on education, which spent a year on a plan for a state board of education, may see its painstaking work go by the boards if the assembly proposes many more amendments to the Miller bill now in the lower house.

Hardly had the assembly begun consideration of the interim committee's plan, contained in a bill introduced by Assemblyman J. D. Miller, Menomonee, than several amendments were submitted in rapid order.

Under the committee's plan, the state board of education would be composed of 15 members appointed by the governor and would supplant some 30 boards and commissions now administering the educational system in Wisconsin.

With the administrative boards of the state universities, the teachers colleges, Stout institute, the historical library, and other institutions jeopardized, it was expected that objection would be raised to the measure.

Assemblyman Moulton Goff, Sturgeon Bay, was the first to submit an amendment. His amendment attempts to prevent the proposed board from taking the jurisdiction of the free library commission and the state historical library.

Assemblyman Arthur Hitt, Alma, would prevent the proposed board from abolishing bureaus that are planned to actively administer the various educational institutions under the board of education. Under this amendment the board would have the power to "organize" certain bureaus "and others as the legislature may from time to time authorize."

Another amendment has been introduced by Assemblyman Harold Groves, Madison, which would take the board of vocational education and the board of trustees of Stout Institute away from the proposed board's jurisdiction.

Assemblyman C. E. Ingram, Eau Claire, would rescind the action of the state teachers' colleges by introducing an amendment which would permit the board of normal school regents to operate independently of the proposed board of education. This amendment, if adopted, would prove almost fatal to the entire bill, it has been pointed out.

Under the interim committee's plan, the office of state superintendent of public instruction would be abolished and John Callahan, present superintendent, would act as head of the proposed board until his term expires.

This plan may be used by opponents of the bill to throw the entire proposal out. The point out that the superintendent is a constitutional officer, elected for a 10 year term and that there is no legal authority to make him subordinate to the proposed board of education.

A companion measure to the Miller bill has been introduced in the senate by Sen. B. J. Roethe, Peaslee, chairman of the interim committee. The Roethe bill was ordered engrossed and sent to the joint committee on finance where it now resides.

STUDENTS ORGANIZE NEW ENGLISH CLUB

Under the sponsorship of Miss Alice Peterson, faculty advisor, Appleton high school students formed a new organization, the English club.

Officers were elected and constitutional and program committees were formed last week. Jacob Shilcrat is the president of the club; Alice Mueller is vice president; and Robert Trenary, secretary. The constitutional committee is composed of Robert Trenary, chairman, Merrill Mohr, Doris Boettcher, Julia Patzner and Mary Mortimer. This group will form a constitution and present it to the high school student council for approval.

Members of the program committee met this afternoon under the leadership of the chairman, Alice Mueller. The other members are Marie Ringer, Sarah Jane Eldridge, William Wilson and William Chopin. The first regular meeting of the club under its officers will be held tomorrow at the high school.

BETTY ELIAS IS NEW HEAD OF GIRL'S CLUB

New officers for the Girl Reserves of Appleton high school are Betty Elias, president; Lucille Wichmann, vice president; Anita Van Alstine, secretary; Doris Toll, treasurer. A discussion meeting of the group was held Tuesday night at the home of Miss Helen McGrath, 429 W. Sixth-st.

Junior High School Girls Form Tap Dancing Class

"Heels, step, back, tap, tap, step, step, heels." Ten McKinley Junior high school girls lined up in a long line the other afternoon to learn the "break" in tap dancing under the patient tutelage of one of their classmates, Teresa Roller.

Every Wednesday afternoon these ninth grade girls frolic in the gymnasium in the dancing class organized by themselves. When they become tired of learning "routine" from Teresa, they work with forward rolls and beginning acrobatics on the mats spread on the floor.

Teresa is a dancer of long standing and ability for she has studied it for many years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roller, 1618 E. John-st.

The class is open to any McKinley school girls. Among those who enjoy their Wednesday afternoon limboing up are Ione Manzer, Ruth Barnes, Lella Pfund, Helen Rhodes, Ethel Scarborough, Evelyn Abel, Bernice Stever, Maxine Monson and Ruth Hartzheim. Marion Rule is a member of the dancing class, but she provides the music for the dancers. Miss Ruth Parkinson is the faculty advisor in charge.

FIND GOOD DEMAND FOR PLAYING CARDS

More Internal Revenue Collected on Goods Made in Wisconsin

Washington—Bridge—or is it poker?—is apparently still popular in this country if the number of packs of playing cards manufactured in Wisconsin is a criterion. Internal revenue receipts from stamp tax on playing cards made in Wisconsin was considerably higher during the first nine months of the fiscal year of 1931 than 1930.

Internal revenue from stamp tax on playing cards in Wisconsin equalled $253,571.30 during the first nine months of 1931 as against $396,266.20 in the same period of 1930. During this same time stamp tax revenue decreased on everything else and even internal revenue from Wisconsin manufactured cigars and cigarettes decreased.

Tax on bonds of indebtedness and capital stock issues was less than a half of the 1930 total, decreasing from $157,196.58 during the first nine months of 1930 to $87,733.66 in the corresponding 1931 period; the tax on capital stock sales or transfers decreased by about 70 per cent from $1,416.52 in 1930 to $403.56 in 1931; and tax on sales of produce for future delivery dropped almost 50 per cent from $6,574.06 in 1930 to $3,508.40 in 1931.

While the tax on Wisconsin manufactured tobacco and snuff increased slightly from $26,013.42 during the first three-quarters of the fiscal year of 1930 to $28,109.15 during the same period of 1931, cigar tax decreased by almost $20,000, sinking from $125,841.48 in 1930 to $107,647.32 in 1931; and tax on cigarettes manufactured in Wisconsin amounted to only $8.87 in 1931 compared with $10.32 in 1930.

For the country as a whole, the internal revenue from all these sources—even stamp tax on playing cards—decreased.

DON'T DENY YOURSELF the joys of BEER

If you miss beer, it is only because you do not know these facts:

There is a brew, called Atlas Special Brew, which is even better than the best of old. It is made by the same masters who made Atlas Beer, always famous in Chicago. And they take special care, so you won't miss beer.

Not a "near-beer," without age or zest. We use the old-time process, skill and materials. But now we treat the water, so you get here the mellow flavor of famous European brews.

Flavor, Tang and Zest

After the brewing we evaporate most of the alcohol. But you don't miss that. If you compared this brew before and after the alcohol removal, you could not tell the difference. Alcohol was only a small factor in good beer.

What people liked in beer was the foam and flavor, the sparkle and the zest. They liked it in the evenings as a social drink, at dinners as a help to digestion, at night as an aid to sleep.

All those delights remain to you in Atlas Special Brew. And few have ever tasted an old-time brew as good.

Don't Spoil This Joy

Don't turn to rank substitutes. Atlas Special Brew will bring back at their best all the helps and joys of old. Just be sure of the name—Atlas Special Brew. A famous laboratory, on every bottle, certifies its purity.

The coupon will bring you two bottles with our compliments. Mail it to us, and bring back the old days to your home.

Farmer Completes Big Field Drainage Project

BY W. F. WINSEY

Last Saturday, H. A. Stolzman, route 2, finished tilling his 80 acre farm. He started the improvement a year ago and has used $35 rods of pipe. One of his main outlets, 135 rods long, is a company affair and runs through the farm of Bush and Becker, neighbors, who also did some tiling on their farm.

"If I had done this tiling 12 years ago before the wet seasons when I could not cut my corn and put it in the silo, the saving of my crops from that time to this would have more than paid the cost of tiling," said Mr. Stolzman. "As there is no in the

IRVING ZUELKE BUILDING

The windows are more than glass coverings. They are especially designed by Kawneer, builder of quality products. They are draught-proof windows—moisture cannot penetrate around them. (Their performance during Appleton's terrific March blizzard proved their resistance to weather.) They are fall-proof windows—their construction makes an accidental fall absolutely impossible.

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Thayer, Nora Lake's husband of a few hours, jumps to death from the steamer carrying them to his home in America. She realizes that he has married her to provide the home denied her while trailing her father, Julian, in his quest for painting scenes. Faced by her father's marriage, she had impulsively effected the loveless union. When Nicholas' brother, Jonathan, meets her at the station in Albany, he does not remember her from a previous meeting, and withers her by unspoken condemnation. Coldly he arranges to take her to his stepmother, Damon, the next day. After telling him they live in a big house with servants, Nora is dismayed to find Aunt Emily and her cousins, Hallet and Frances, in a dingy, middle-class place.

Chapter 14
LOST HAPPINESS

FRANCES left the room with Jonathan and as Nora heard his steps retreating down the stairs she sat down on the bed, completely wretched.

She would leave tomorrow and never return. Nora knew all the signs of poverty that brought back to her the memory of her own wandering and homeless life. These people were like her father, poor, gay, hopeful, living in a mean little brick house, from which they might move next week.

Nora stripped off her wrinkled dress and pulled the coolie jacket out of her bag. When she went into the bathroom she found Frances picking up stringy wet towels and small underclothes that were scattered about. The water splashed spasmodically into the tub. A limp curtain hung at the window and the walls were of wood painted white.

When she returned to the attic room Frances was spreading thin blankets on the bed. Aunt Emily looked at Nora's wretched small face. Nora attempted to smile.

"Don't try to be too brave, dear," she said.

She could see how sorry for her her aunt was as she said goodnight. She did not deserve it. The shock of Nicholas' death had unnerved her; but she did not wish him back.

Nora looked at Frances Lindsay over the brim of a cup of hot broth she had brought her. Frances was 20 but looked younger. Her face with its warm coloring and dark eyes, the smooth dark hair brushed straight back from her forehead, was arresting. She had a low throaty laugh that was heartwarming.

"Shall I stay with you or would you rather be alone?" she asked.

"Stay with me!"

Frances looked at Nora. Nora's cheeks blazed fiery red, the blue eyes deepened and darkened with emotion. Frances had thought she was rather plain but now she was startled by her loveliness.

"We are all so terribly sorry—" she said softly.

"Don't. I can't bear pity!"

All at once Nora longed to pour herself out to this dark sweet woman.

"Do you remember my father?" Nora asked.

"I remember he was an exciting person, with a voice you never forgot," she said, smiling, as Nora's heart rushed out to her.

"Are you the bride?" she asked.

"Alice, go right back to bed!" Frances said, rising. She scented off but the question still hung in the air. Nora began to talk with a breathless rush. She poured out the whole story, from the night when she had first seen Nicholas coming up the path in the moonlight, until that last bitter night when she lay down alone. She spared herself nothing.

"I hated it all, all the worry and the borrowing and the running away." When Julian was going to be married I felt desperate. When he—" she could not say "Nicholas" was so thankful. He said he'd bring me home. I was a little afraid of him. But those last days I liked him. I really liked him."

Frances was looking at her with something strange and puzzling in her eyes.

"You don't understand! You have to live it to understand. Always to live it to people because you owe them money. I would have married anyone at all, who would have saved me from that!"

"But there is one thing that is killing me. If I had loved him, I could have saved him, couldn't I? I would have known what he was going to do?"

Suddenly Nora regretted bitterly that she had told this dark quiet girl about herself. And then Frances said impulsively:

"You think I don't understand. But perhaps I do." Frances went on steadily. "I thought my husband loved me. But he ran off with another woman."

"Do you still love him?"

Nora saw a tremor pass over the still body.

"Not now. Not any longer. That's all gone. I have the children. You didn't see Dickie, did you? He was in bed when you came. We were poor, you see, and it was a fearful struggle. Also, he was a little thing and always sick. There were doctor's bills, and I was deadly tired all the time. Sometimes," Frances said, smiling oddly, "I used to be so tired by six o'clock, I would cry. I was 25 then." She went on reflectively as though she were speaking of someone long dead. "I could always see David coming home, and the house quiet and peaceful, the children asleep and a delicious dinner smoking hot on the table."

"Oh how you were then! If I had it to do all over again—but I haven't!" Her dark eyes brooded and then she looked up at Nora. "I never told this to anyone before. But the thing is, the days go by and something happens to you and you begin to be happy again. And you have just ahead, as you used to, want money and all the other things."

Frances ended on a breath.

Nora lay very still. What was that thing that Frances had found? The kind of happiness that swept over her sometimes under the open sky? Would she ever be happy that way again?

"You will be, you will be," Frances whispered, bending over her as though she understood.

Frances turned out the light and stood before the window pulling up the shades so that she could see the stars. How small and insignificant they were, their minute problems etched against the night sky. All the hot turmoil, the unrest, was quieted. When she turned back and bent over Nora she saw in the pale light that Nora was asleep.

The sunlight was sliding in through the blinds when Nora woke next morning. She felt as though she were waking out of a dark dream into this unfamiliar room.

Someone had come tiptoeing in to open the blinds. It was her cousin Hallet.

"Did you sleep well?" she asked.

"I feel different—as though for the first time I was real."

Hallet had stopped before the painting that Nicholas had given Nora.

"Did your father do that?" Hallet asked.

"Nicholas did it," Nora said in a low voice.

"How happy he must have been to do that!"

"He was the most unhappy person I ever knew," Nora said.

She got out of bed and turned away. "Take it away, please. I can't bear to see it."

Hallet stood looking at her with pity and understanding.

Hallet Durant was a woman of strong feeling shut into a twisted shell of pain. She was not afraid of pain; she had met it too often and too stoically. But each day it must be conquered afresh. Now as she stood looking at Nora she was frankly envious of that young strong body, the slim white rounded legs, the delicate wrists and splendid throat. To have a body like that so free and beautiful!

Nora said, "I have to go out to his people this afternoon. Do you think they'll like me?"

"Why do you care?"

"I care more than anything else in the world!"

Hallet reflected that she would not like to be young again. It was the saddest time of your life. You suffered too much, expected too much, without either the philosophy or wisdom to guard you.

(Copyright, 1930, Jessie Douglas Fox)

Reckless!—Jon's driving—yes. And perhaps also Nora's hopes for the beauty and peace she finds tomorrow, them money. I would have married at the end of their ride.

MANY REPORTS, PROBES ASKED BY LEGISLATURE

Both Houses Have Made Demands for Investigations

Madison—(AP)—Where all the legislative investigations would lead to if put end to end is a fit problem for mathematicians. To date the legislature has asked for 27 investigations. The assembly has asked for 43 opinions, reports or investigations while the senate has come to the fore with 11. Twenty-three reports were asked by the legislature and the attorney general was asked for seven opinions. Seven of the 11 senate actions were for investigations. Investigator No. 1 in the assembly is G. E. Ingram, Eau Claire, who has fathered nine resolutions and joint resolutions asking for information of one sort or other. Each of the 11 measures in the senate were introduced by assembly members.

Last week Assemblyman Henry Ellenbecker, Wausau, took the floor of the lower house to devote the investigations and reports incurred by legislative action.

"When the legislature convenes, all the state departments stop work and just wait to be investigated or to be ordered to give a report," he said.

He cited a report submitted by the state highway commission. "The report took weeks of the commissioner's time, and I don't think there is a person in this house that looked at it," Mr. Ellenbecker said. "The facts are all easily available, if members of the legislature want to dig them up."

Among the departments of the legislature it was proposed to investigate were the following: Securities division of state railroad commission, real estate brokers' board, bureau of personnel, banking department, state highway commission, and conservation commission.

Reports asked included the following: Bread and meat prices by the department of agriculture and markets; effects on health or methanol by university chemists; violation of small loans law by banking commissioners; list of lobbyists, secretary of state; work to check stream pollution, committee on water pollution; work of past five years and plans for future, conservation commission; methods of valuing electric utilities, tax railroad commissions; university pay roll, J. D. Phillips, business manager; use of state fair building to house unemployed, department of agriculture and markets.

More Requests
Other reports ask for: Duplication in state employment, bureau of personnel; state funds on deposit in chain banks, banking commissioner; companies that write automobile insurance and workmen's compensation insurance, insurance commissioner; what the new highway law does, highway commission; what annuity and investment board does with money it handles, by the board; what taxation of banks on income basis brings, tax commission; requirements of federal government on maintenance of federal trunk highways, highway commission; holdings of three large utility holdings corporations in state, railroad commission; damage by trucks to highways, highway commission; salary of Pres. Glenn Frank and other compensation, Mr. Phillips; why attorney general has not drafted constitutional chain store tax bill, attorney general.

Other investigations suggested, each of which involved work by a committee, were:
Charges that Sen. P. J. Smith was bribed; the cutover land and northern Wisconsin tax problem; reapportionment of congressional districts; consolidation of the university and capital heating plants; work of the lobbyists; silence rule in the Wau-pun prison.
Financial administration of Memorial Union; new penal institution for lesser offenders; possibility of manufacturing farm machinery in the state prison; improvement of county government; survey of highway commission of shore drive along Lake Michigan; vocational education in the state prison; activities of bituminous interests in connection with the state highway commission; wage reductions in state industries; charges by John B. Chaplin, Ashland editor, that an assembly committee abridged his right of free speech farm loans made by teachers' retirement fund, and discrimination by radio stations in Wisconsin against individuals and firms.

RUMOR RAILS SEEK BOOST IN FREIGHT RATES

Several Firms to Send Representatives to Meeting in Chicago

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
(Copyright 1931, by C. F. Speare)
Wall Street, New York (CFA)—
The report has been current in Wall Street for several days that it is the intention of the railroads to petition the interstate commerce commission for an increase in freight rates. It was learned today that there is to be a meeting of representatives of the carriers in Chicago at the end of this week, at which the entire subject of freight rates and the wages of railroad employees will be discussed.

The advocates of a rate advance believe that this should be horizontal in character, in contrast to other requests for higher rates on special classes of manufactured articles or commodities. The claim would probably be made for a 10 per cent increase. If this were to apply to all freight classifications, it would mean added revenues of $482,000,000 a year on the basis of the 1929 tonnage.

The reasonableness of a demand for higher freight rates is to be found in the startling decrease in the net operating income of even the strongest American railroads and the effect that continuous losses for over a year have had on their credit.

See Unfairness
The apparent unreasonableness of the claim for an advance in freight tariffs would be its coincidence with declining commodity prices and a general resistance on the part of the public to any more resulting in a higher cost of living. An advance would also contract with numerous reductions that have been made recently on the request of the railroads in order to permit them to meet competition with motor bus lines and motor trucks.

The explanation of a campaign for higher freight rates may, therefore, be from its relation to the railroad wage situation. There are two opposing groups among railroad executives on the question of wage reductions. A smaller and less influential body of railroad presidents is advocating reduction in the standard rates of railroad pay. A larger group, representing the strongest of the eastern and western systems, has refused invitations to attend conferences at which the wage question was to be debated. It is understood that another such meeting is scheduled to be held in New York today.

If the railroads were to be permitted to increase their freight rates, they would have no logical ground on which to argue for a reduction in the wages of employees.

More Workers
It might also be possible for them to return to work a considerable number of the engineers, firemen, trainmen, shopmen, and maintenance of way employees who have been laid off on account of the heavy decrease in earnings. Altogether it is not possible to dissociate the subject of a freight rate increase from the extremely live question of railroad wages.

The charts prepared by the bureau of railway economics indicate that, since 1911, freight rates in the United States have increased slightly over 40 per cent. From the level of 20 years ago until the United States entered the war there was a gradual decrease, followed by an increase of about 70 per cent to the peak in 1921. Since the roads were returned to private ownership after their two and one-half years' experience with federal control, the trend of freight rates has been almost constantly downward. This movement has been more violent on the roads in the western district. Today the latter are receiving rates only about 25 per cent above those in effect twenty years ago, in spite of the great increase meanwhile in the cost of commodities and in the level of wages. The average for all roads in the country is slightly over 40 per cent from the 1911 basis.

The agitation now for higher freight rates comes as the interstate commerce commission has approved two requests of carriers in the southwest for rate reductions. The major one has been filed by lines that have lost heavily to motor trucks in the cotton carrying trade. In this situation, the trucks have been making hauls up to 425 miles and have been able to obtain nearly 25 per cent of the cotton tonnage between the Red river and gulf ports. Roads in the same general territory have been operating at a lower passenger rate per mile in order to compete on even terms with the motor bus lines.

Fox declared Coombs, a man of normal size, won the affections of his four-foot wife, Mrs. Nona Fox, shown on the right. Their young daughter, also shown here, is of normal size.
